Final Effort Made To Agree On New Federal Ridings

Committee Grapples With Differences Before Redistribution Bill Launched on Discussion in Commons

Two New Districts In British Columbia

Oak Bay and Esquimalt Are Added to Victoria For Voting Purposes

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 17.—The Commons at 1 o'clock this afternoon adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, by agreement, to enable a small select committee to study the redistribution bill. The committee is composed of Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, Hon. Alfred Durnan, Minister of Marine; Hon. Charles Stewart, Liberal, Edmonton West; Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Liberal, Quebec East, and Robert Gardiner, U.F.A., Acadia.

Premier Bennett asked permission of the House to table the report of the redistribution committee. He suggested that in order to reach an understanding a committee of older members of the government and the opposition be selected to go over the bill, which was now ready for distribution. Mr. Gardiner was chosen to represent the whole Progressive group.

NEW B.C. DISTRICTS
Ottawa, May 17.—New constituencies of Vancouver East and Kamloops are created under the redistribution bill introduced in Parliament to-day. The bill provides for the creation of two new constituencies in the province of British Columbia in the Commons from fourteen to sixteen.

The new constituency of Vancouver East will conform to the new provincial constituency of Vancouver East. It will commence at the intersection of the projection southerly of the centre line of Fraser Avenue with the south boundary of Vancouver City. The boundary of the constituency will follow the projection and the centre lines of Fraser Avenue, Sixteenth Avenue, Knight Street, Fifteenth Avenue, Victoria Drive and its projection northerly to the north boundary of the city.

Kamloops and Salmon Arm—A portion of the present constituency of West Kootenay, including Revelstoke, is brought into the new riding. Two constituencies remain unchanged. They are Skeena, whose boundary will continue to extend to Alaska and Yale.

Cariboo loses the southeastern portion to the new constituency of Kamloops. The area taken off includes the towns of Kamloops and Salmon Arm. Victoria will take in Oak Bay and Esquimalt municipalities.

COMOX-ALBERTA EXTENDED
Comox-Alberta, located at the northern end of Vancouver Island, will take in a strip on the mainland which had been in North Vancouver riding. Powell River is the chief town on the mainland which will go into Comox-Alberta.

City Tax Aid Plan On Arrears Popular

Public Spooning Draws Complaint

Love-sick Swains and Maids Gathering In Cars On Douglas Street, Police Told

Love sick lads and lassies who choose one of the streets in the heart of the city to their spooling, in the opinion of dwellers in apartments on Douglas Street between Yates and View Streets, according to complaints filed with the police.

It appears that the east side of Douglas Street at the point mentioned is a regular nightly rendezvous for swains and their loves in automobiles. Unfortunately, however, they attract the attention of "would-be toughs," and the language often used is not of the best, according to the complaint. The police are looking into it.

INQUEST ORDERED

Carmangay, Alta., May 17 (Canadian Press)—An inquest will be held next week in Carmangay on the deaths of Frank Hubka, sixty-two, and his daughter Mary, twenty, who were killed yesterday evening when their automobile was struck by a north-bound Canadian Pacific passenger train at Pocock siding, thirty-five miles north of Lethbridge. The date the inquest will be held will be set later.

ONTARIO AID GRANTS FIXED

Ottawa, May 17.—"The Dominion's contribution toward direct relief in Ontario will continue on the same basis of one-third of the total cost until July 31, and after that the contribution from the Dominion likely will be on a diminishing basis," declared Premier George S. Henry of Ontario this afternoon after a two-hour discussion on relief with Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor.

UNITED CHURCH SESSION OPENS

Rev. A. D. Archibald New B.C. Conference President; Sunday Observance Resolution

Canadian Press
Vancouver, May 17.—Rev. A. D. Archibald of Richmond was elected president of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church at the session which opened in St. John's United Church here this morning. Mr. Archibald has been secretary of the conference and chairman of the Vancouver presbytery.

Rev. George O. Falls, retiring president, conducted the opening worship. The agenda of business, prepared by the secretaries and the business committee, was adopted by the conference. This afternoon the sessional committees met to complete their reports for presentation.

The lay association of the conference held an all-day session yesterday, closing with the annual banquet, at which the following officers were elected: President, Capt. F. R. Wright, Victoria; vice-presidents for presbyteries, W. A. Gleason, Vancouver; E. W. Somers, Nelson; Mrs. P. M. Harrie, Guelph; C. W. Glass, Terrace; J. W. Welsh, Fort Langley, and Dr. W. Archibald, Kamloops; secretary, F. H. Fullerton, Vancouver; treasurer, G. F. Gibson, Vancouver.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE
A resolution urging strict observance of Sunday and deploring any laxity in this regard was passed for submission to the whole conference. The resolution, submitted by R. G. Howell of Victoria, pointed out inroads into the Lord's Day Observance Act as defined by statute.

It was decided to support the movement for the annual laymen's Sunday in all the United Churches of British Columbia. The findings of the convention will be reported to the conference.

The speech made by Chancellor Hitler to-day before the German Reichstag is now being analyzed in the capital of every important country in the world. A glimpse of Hitler as he appears when making a public address is given above. The picture received in Victoria to-day was taken when the Chancellor was speaking to a crowd of hundreds of thousands who recently thronged the Tempelhof Airfield at Berlin. The massed storm troops about the rostrum are shown giving the Nazi salute as the far-flung crowd did the same.

Tolmie Adds To Cabinet In Bid For Labor Vote

NEW MINISTER STATES POLICY

Plans to Eliminate Eighty-five Per Cent of Relief Burden By Work Survey

Hon. W. M. Dennies Takes Quarters in Speaker's Chambers

Hon. William Middleton Dennies, new Minister of Labor, was escorted in the Speaker's chambers to-day pending the selection of permanent offices. The cabinet, in session under the Premier, formally endorsed the appointment of the new minister.

Mr. Dennies saw newspapermen and handed them a statement in which he said he and thousands of others will be gratified at Premier Tolmie's action. "Our future efforts will be to eliminate at least eighty-five per cent of the relief burden," the statement said. "The public will understand," Mr. Dennies said when asked to amplify the paragraph.

INAUGURAL STATEMENT

The new minister issued the following inaugural statement, which he refused to alter or amplify for "fear of being misquoted," so he refused to say more than that the statement is not the result of typographical errors: "While I am not in a position at the present to submit anything specific I may say it is really more than gratifying to me and thousands of others in all walks of life in B.C. that Premier Tolmie has decided to form a real Union Government to represent all classes in society, in spite of the reaction of party politicians and a combination of old party politicians grouping themselves together under the failure of party politics in the past which our provincial and municipal obligations stand as monuments symbolic of party political patronage (better known as the pork barrel)."

"I am convinced that Premier Tolmie by virtue of his experience in the last few years with die-hard party politicians is sincere in endeavoring in selecting visional and prudent men; men of integrity, men who realize that so-

Politicians and Public Surprised When Portfolios Increased When Cut Anticipated

Mystery Man Walks Off Afternoon Boat to Be Sworn in as Hon. William Middleton Dennies, Minister of Labor

Premier Tolmie created a new cabinet portfolio yesterday and between the close of business at the Parliament Buildings and dinner hour took William Middleton Dennies, Vancouver labor leader to Government House, where before Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Fordham Johnson he was sworn in as Minister of Labor.

Mystery surrounded the advent of the new cabinet minister. Even Hon. J. W. Jones and Hon. R. H. Bruhn did not know who the mystery man was. All they had about him was the assurance of Premier Tolmie that "he was a winner." It was understood that H. D. Twigg, Tolmie organizer, discovered Mr. Dennies in Vancouver, and had been guaranteed that he could deliver a solid block of labor votes. The development was characteristic of the whole atmosphere of uncertainty and speculation pervading provincial government circles.

When the afternoon boat arrived from Vancouver and J. W. Cornett, M.P.P. for South Vancouver and Conservative whip, stepped ashore, it was assumed by those tipped off earlier in the day that Mr. Cornett was the man. However, Mr. Cornett said he knew nothing about it. While he was saying this, the unknown man calmly walked by along the dock gang-way and no one recognized him as the man of the hour.

AIM TO SWING LABOR VOTE

During the life of the present government, Hon. W. A. McKenzie has held the joint ministry of mines and labor, with Adam Bell, Deputy Minister of Labor under him. Now with the splitting of this ministry into two, Mr. McKenzie will continue as Minister of Mines, handing over to Mr. Dennies the labor department and its deputy.

BENNETT SEES NO BAR TO TITLES IN CANADA

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 17.—It is the considered view of the government that the 1919 motion with respect to honors adopted "by a majority of the members of the House of Commons only of the Thirteenth Parliament, is not binding on His Majesty or His Majesty's Government in Canada, or on the Seventeenth Parliament," Premier Bennett told the House this afternoon.

The promotion of Sir George Perley in the order of St. Michael and St. George, the Premier said, was in accordance with established constitutional practice.

The resolution asking the King to confer no more titles in Canada was passed by the Commons in the last year of the Borden administration. On several occasions since then private motions offered by Conservative members seeking a return of titles were voted down in the Commons.

Rt. Hon. G. H. Perley was created a Knight Commander of the order of St. Michael and St. George January 1, 1915.

NINE ARE LISTED FOR SENTENCE

Vancouver, May 17.—Twenty men, arrested here yesterday evening and charged with obtaining meals by false pretences, appeared in police court to-day. Nine were convicted before Magistrate J. A. Finlay and will be sentenced to-morrow.

The remaining eleven were remanded until to-morrow for trial. The men, who were dispirited with food given them at the Hamilton Street city shelter, were arrested after they had invaded downtown restaurants "and after obtaining meals, refused to pay for them."

JAPAN'S VIEWS ON AGGRESSION

War Office Finds Roosevelt's Suggestion to Nations Embarrassing

By Glenn Babb, Associated Press Correspondent

Tokio, May 17.—Japan, because of her present operations in North China, would be embarrassed by President Roosevelt's suggestion that nations should abstain from sending armed forces outside of their borders, a spokesman for the War Office declared to-day.

"Japan is second to none in loving real peace," he said, "but if the assurance of peace means the maintenance of status quo regardless of circumstances, Japan would be unable to subscribe to the suggestion."

The Foreign Office, beyond characterizing it as "very important," declined to comment at present on the statement, as it had been made direct to the throne.

MILK TROUBLE GROWS IN U.S.

More Than 7,000 National Guardsmen Dealing With Wisconsin Farmers

Associated Press
Milwaukee, May 17.—A crisis in the Wisconsin milk strike appeared imminent to-day as the state sent more than 7,000 National Guardsmen into the field to combat the farmers who said "thousands of farmers would arise" to close cheese factories, condensers and creameries.

Adjutant-General Ralph M. Imnell concentrated his forces in two sectors—Shawano County in the north and counties comprising the Milwaukee milk shed. Pickets were massing in those areas.

Yesterday evening more than 800 additional guardsmen were moved to trouble points. More than 500 men attempted to burn dairy farm buildings in Racine County. One hundred and twenty guardsmen sped to the scene. More than 1,000 strikers threatened violence at Bonduel, scene of disorders Monday. To match their strength, Imnell sent 700 Milwaukee militiamen to join the 280 already there.

A disturbance on the streets of Milwaukee yesterday evening by 200 enraged strikers and sympathizers was not quelled until police rushed to the rescue of bleeding and bruised deputies who successfully defended eight trucks of milk.

Equality Is Demand Of Germany, Says Chancellor To Reichstag And World

MAY EXEMPT MAIL PLANE

Delay to Liners and Possible Loss of Revenue May Cause Cancellation of Ruling

Passenger Landing Incident, Used as Lever, May Likely Prove Boomerang

Because a plane carrying passengers from Seattle recently swooped down to a landing in the harbor here in contravention of existing regulations, the whole controversy relative to the use of the Inner Harbor by seaplanes has been revived by a new ruling from Ottawa.

The newest ruling affects the handling of mails at Victoria and is expected to seriously inconvenience the transfer of United States mails put ashore here from trans-Pacific liners for rapid transit to Seattle by plane.

Pilot Percy Barnes of Seattle, who holds the air mail contract for the Seattle-Victoria route, and has been a familiar figure with his plane in the Inner Harbor, has been barred from using the harbor. The next ocean liner to be met for mails is due Thursday evening.

If the ruling is sustained, Pilot Barnes may have to go to the Esquimalt base in future to deliver and collect mails. When the Canadian Airways Limited and the Wells Air Transport Company, regular passenger-carriers, were forced to go to Esquimalt Harbor, following strong opposition by the transportation companies to the use of the Inner Harbor by seaplanes on the pretext of the danger of collision with shipping, Pilot Barnes was privileged to use his regular landing stage in front of the Parliament Buildings for mail handling purposes.

REVERSAL OF ORDER SOUGHT
Now he has been barred from the Inner Harbor. This action, peculiarly enough, has resulted in one of the transportation companies which had previously opposed the landing of planes in the harbor making representations to the federal government to permit the landing of the mail plane at the customs base.

It is reported that the compulsory landing of the plane in Esquimalt Harbor might result in delay to outgoing mail steamships because of the time taken to get the mail to the ship.

"Japan is second to none in loving real peace," he said, "but if the assurance of peace means the maintenance of status quo regardless of circumstances, Japan would be unable to subscribe to the suggestion."

The Foreign Office, beyond characterizing it as "very important," declined to comment at present on the statement, as it had been made direct to the throne.

Packed Audience Hears Party Leader at Vernon Meeting

Vernon, B.C., May 17.—In a fighting speech before an audience that packed the Scout Hall here yesterday evening, T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, fired his first gun in the Okanagan in his election campaign.

Taking his listeners back to the days prior to 1903 in provincial politics, when there were no parties, and individual independents represented their constituents, Mr. Pattullo stressed the result. Government, he said, became a process of collusion between these individuals, dickered and traded for power, and the ultimate result was such an instability that the banks would not honor the province's cheques.

A solution to the impasse was found only when stable government along party lines was introduced, policies ironed out, and concrete platforms constructed.

The speaker dismissed the Tolmie followers in a few short sentences and in no way referred to the activities of the last five years. "It would be merely a matter of flogging a dead horse," he remarked, branding many of the present government members as those "who are going around street corners condemning the government at this time, yet who did not have the courage to get up in the House to condemn the government's policies when they were being carried out."

The foundation of coalition proposals must surely be one of goodwill, the speaker continued.

Hitler Endorses President Roosevelt's Plan Designed to Relieve International Crisis; Germany Ready to Scrap Armaments If All Other Nations Will Do Same; Warning Given That If Powers Insist on Germany Continuing in Inferior Position, Country Will Withdraw From International Conferences and League

By Louis B. Lochner, Associated Press Staff Correspondent
Berlin, May 17.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in an impassioned speech before the Reichstag to-day, gratefully endorsed President Roosevelt's plan for relieving the international crisis and promised co-operation with Mr. Roosevelt's efforts. The Chancellor agreed that without solution of the disarmament problem lasting economic reconstruction is unthinkable.

In behalf of the entire nation, and especially the young Nazi movement, he pledged Germany would go as far as any nation in disarming, even to the extent of scrapping her whole military equipment, provided other powers would do the same.

STAMP CHEQUE PLEA REFUSED

Exemption Will Not Apply to Fruit and Vegetable Co-operative Societies

Passage of the Special War Revenue Act on May 10, under which the Dominion Government granted exemption of the stamp tax on cheques issued by all co-operative societies for eggs, cream and wool, will not apply to fruit and vegetable co-operative societies of British Columbia, it was learned at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

Spanish co-operatives some days ago asked the Department of Agriculture to take the matter up with the Ottawa authorities. Yesterday Premier S. F. Tolmie wired Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, asking the federal authorities to extend the exemption to British Columbia's co-operatives, but reply came to-day to the effect that the legislation passed on May 10 could not be interpreted to mean fruit and vegetable co-operatives of this province.

No Expropriation Of Beauharnois

Bennett Tells Commons Constitutional Difficulties in Way; No Expropriation of Power To Be Licensed

Ottawa, May 17.—The Dominion Government will issue no licenses for expropriation of power to the United States, Premier Bennett announced this forenoon in the Commons during a statement of the government's policy in relation to the Beauharnois developments in Canada.

Because of constitutional difficulties, the Dominion could not expropriate the Beauharnois development as suggested in the House recently by members of the Progressive Party, the Prime Minister said. It was a Quebec problem and the Dominion could not interfere with that province's policy of developing power through private interests.

At the same time the Prime Minister intimated an investigation would be launched into the part played in the Beauharnois development by the Jacques Cartier Company of Montreal. Regarding the acquisition of Beauharnois by Sir Herbert Holt and the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, the Prime Minister to-day said it was a matter of personal regret to him and regret to his government, but it was something over which the Dominion could exercise no control.

Mr. Bennett prefaced his statement that the government had no intention of expropriating Beauharnois with two old sayings—"It is useless to lock the stable after the horse has been stolen," and "Not Heaven itself can change the facts—what has been, has been." These proverbs completely symbolized the situation with regard to Beauharnois, he said.

South African Poll To Decide Majority

With Coalition Victory Assured Voters To-day Determine Strength of Leading Group

Capetown, South Africa, May 17.—Election of seventy-two constituencies in the Union of South Africa cast their votes to-day for or against their country's new coalition government, but the result was decided before they went to the polls. Seventy-eight members pledged to support the administration were returning unopposed on nomination day.

The election will decide merely how large a majority the new regime will have in the House of Assembly. No results were anticipated before mid-night.

Polling began quietly and the ballots mounted rapidly as it is the first time European women have been allowed to cast their preferences in a general election.

Formation of the coalition has been hailed as the beginning of a new era in South African Government. It reunited, after half a life-time of political enmity, two former comrades-in-arms who fought Great Britain before their country gained self-government. General James Barry Hertzog, Nationalist Prime Minister, and General Jan C. Smuts, South African Party leader, now Deputy Premier, in its inception ended, temporarily at least, a quarter century of racialism and rivalry between British and Dutch sections of the Union's population.

HERTZOG MAN OPPOSED
Behind the scenes of coalition ex-Judge Tielman Roos plunged into a crusade against what he termed wasteful animosity in the House of Assembly. In the election he decided to run against a Hertzog aide, Hon. F. G.

Grobler, Minister of Native Affairs in the new cabinet. The contest between the two provided one of the highlights of the campaign, as Grobler is Nationalist leader in Transvaal.

Roos held the nation needs several coalitionists not allied with other parties to see that neither of the main groups attempts to gain preponderant power at the expense of non-partisan rule.

Strength of the parties at formation of the coalition was: Nationalist, 77; South African, 62; Labor, 3; National Council Labor, 3; Independent, 3; total 148.

Two seats were added by redistribution.

POLICE CLEARED IN CELL SUICIDE

Nanaimo, May 17.—Inquest on Lim Bow, local Chinese who was found hanging in his cell shortly after his conviction on a narcotic charge, was held Monday by Coroner Hickling at the Jenkin's Undertaking Parlors. Witnesses giving evidence were Constable Hayward and Sgt. Russell, who described finding the man hanging from an iron bar of the toilet window. They told of applying artificial respiration without avail, as did also Doctors Ingram and Brown. The jury, after visiting the scene of the hanging, found that the man met death at his own hands by strangulation, with no evidence of negligence on the part of the police.

NO CONSCRIPTION
Ottawa, May 17 (Canadian Press)—"Conscription is not the policy of Canada or of this government," the Commons was told yesterday by Hon. Donald M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence.

SHIP COMBINE ON GREAT LAKES IS CHARGED BY M.P.

Tolmie Adds to Cabinet In Bid For Labor Vote

POLITICIANS CALL MOVE 'TOO NAIVE'

Liberal, Bowser and various independent party leaders expressed surprise at the move. They declared that while the public for months had been criticizing the record size of the Tolmie cabinet with its eleven ministers, and had been led to believe a substantial reduction was imminent, the Premier has stepped out and created one more. They pointed out the new ministry, if continued, would involve besides the minister's salary, the expenses of a steadily growing staff of secretaries, stenographers, sub-officials and the costs of offices and supplies. One politician said he thought the Premier's move, coming just before election was just a little too naive to be effective. He described it as characterized by political ineptitude and thought if labor voters would have the feeling they were being lured "to vote right by adding still more to their liabilities as taxpayers."

G. B. Macaulay, secretary of the National Labor Council in Vancouver, issued a statement to-day, praising Premier Tolmie and Mr. Denies. He declared the Premier was "making good his promise that all parties could participate in his Conservative-Union government."

"It appears there is being manifested the Premier's seriousness in re-organization of the cabinet for which he is to be highly commended and the province congratulated," Mr. Macaulay went on. "Mr. Denies, as a member of the Amalgamated Carpenters since 1906 is well known in labor circles."

Officials of the various international labor unions with whom most skilled workers in British Columbia are affiliated, volunteered an opinion on the choice of Mr. Denies, who has been one of the leaders working to break up the strength of the international for the benefit of his own domestic union.

LABOR AND WAR RECORD

The new minister has been a resident of Vancouver for twenty-four years. He is well known in B.C. labor circles, having been a member of the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Labor Union since 1906. He has attended the majority of their conventions and acted on all their administrative and legislative committees. In 1915 he enlisted in North Vancouver with the Canadian Engineers and served throughout the duration of the war. Mr. Denies returned to Canada with the rank of quartermaster-sergeant. At Dreucaourt-Queen's Switch he was decorated with the military medal for gallantry in the field.

Returning to Vancouver, Mr. Denies was appointed instructor for the District of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, and acted in that capacity for a year at the University B.C. He then was appointed chief instructor for Vancouver for the same organization, being stationed at the Pender Street School.

PREMIER EXPLAINS MOVE
Premier Tolmie issued the following statement:

"Believing that it is the wish of the people that we bring into the government service representatives of all branches of our industrial life, and believing that it is in the public interest so to do, I have brought into the government as Minister of Labor, Mr. William Middleton Denies, the highest executive of Canadian labor organizations within the province. I know that in so doing I have secured a man who will always do honor to the highest principles of labor, who will work in the interests of labor, and through organized labor in the interest and welfare of the province as a whole."

"In order that the inclusion of Mr. Denies in the government might be effected, the ministries of mines and labor have been separated. Hon. W. A. McKenzie continuing as Minister of Mines, and Mr. Denies to assume the portfolio of labor during his tenure of that office, a responsible share in company with the portfolio of mines."

LOOKS FOR LABOR SUPPORT

"It is felt that in the appointment of Mr. Denies we will have a man who is particularly allied to labor, and in this connection, possible contact with labor problems."

"In seeking to provide more adequately for our wage earners, it is felt that we will have the endorsement of that large group, and also the support of citizens of British Columbia who have the best interests of the province at heart. We fully realize the great value of labor and its contribution to the thought of the times. It is from the responsible element of labor that we look for and confidently expect support for laws and to improve the condition of all British Columbia citizens as fast as may prove possible."

"We want prosperity in British Columbia, and we cannot have it unless we all have our share of that prosperity. So long as one group of our citizens suffers from lack of the essentials of life we are not experiencing true prosperity. The experiences of the past few years have brought to us a full realization of the value of the payroll. All branches of society have suffered. No one has any desire to experience a repetition of what we have been going through during this period of depression."

"The present conditions return will there be sufficient work to keep our wage earners in profitable employment? No government can afford to ignore these vital questions. The Unionist Party of British Columbia does not propose to ignore these questions and is determined to seek remedies for the situation."

EXCHANGE DOLLAR HOLDS ITS GROUND

Canadian Press
New York, May 17.—Canada and British currencies rallied in late trading on the New York foreign exchange market to-day.

The pound sterling wiped out an early decline of three cents to wind up unchanged at $3.91 1/2.

The Canadian dollar also erased an early loss of half a cent to finish unchanged also at 87 1/2 cents. This represented a premium on United States funds of 14 1/2 per cent.

Ottawa, May 17.—Canadian lake shippers already have a combine organization, it was charged in the Commons to-day by E. J. Young, Liberal, Weyburn, Sask. He was leading a criticism of the combine. Although the combine would exclude United States ships from Canada's coastal trade.

Prairie wheat producers, said Mr. Young—and he was joined by other western members—would be at the mercy of the shipping combine. The exclusion of United States vessels would remove all competition, leading to higher grain rates. Although the Board of Grain Commissioners could set a maximum grain rate, the exclusion of competition would peg prices at an artificially high figure.

G. B. Macaulay, Conservative, Algoma West, Ont., asked if prairie wheat producers were to receive all consideration in drafting the shipping bill. Millions of dollars were invested in lake shipping facilities and if United States competition were not excluded, Canadian vessels would be driven from the lakes.

Ottawa, May 17.—Expected opposition from western members developed when the bill amending the Canada Shipping Act was before the Commons yesterday evening. The bill, introduced by Hon. Alfred Durnham, Minister of Marine, reserves exclusively for British, including Canadian shipping, all trade between Canadian ports. Foreign vessels, for example, may not carry grain from the east of the Great Lakes to Buffalo and there transfer to other ships and proceed to Montreal. The entire distance of the voyage will have to be by British ships. The United States protects its coastal shipping in almost identical language to that used in the present bill.

Prairie opposition members expressed fear the clauses preventing use of foreign ships in the Great Lakes grain traffic would mean higher freight rates.

STEVENS SPEAKS
Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, replying to cries of "monopoly" and "combine," gave it as his view the new act would be a benefit to the farmer a penny. He held as unwarranted charges western wheat producers would be at the mercy of lake shippers would be excluded from the grain trade.

SALARY INCREASED
The House yesterday placed its final approval on the bill amending the Tariff Board Act, which raised the salary of Chairman G. H. Sedgewick from $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

So long as one group of our citizens suffers from lack of the essentials of life we are not experiencing true prosperity. The experiences of the past few years have brought to us a full realization of the value of the payroll. All branches of society have suffered. No one has any desire to experience a repetition of what we have been going through during this period of depression."

"The present conditions return will there be sufficient work to keep our wage earners in profitable employment? No government can afford to ignore these vital questions. The Unionist Party of British Columbia does not propose to ignore these questions and is determined to seek remedies for the situation."

EXCHANGE DOLLAR HOLDS ITS GROUND

Canadian Press
New York, May 17.—Canada and British currencies rallied in late trading on the New York foreign exchange market to-day.

The pound sterling wiped out an early decline of three cents to wind up unchanged at $3.91 1/2.

The Canadian dollar also erased an early loss of half a cent to finish unchanged also at 87 1/2 cents. This represented a premium on United States funds of 14 1/2 per cent.

without any military training and equipment, merely for party purposes and needs.

"Their purpose was and is solely the removal of the Communist danger. Their organization is purely for propaganda purposes."

"The Steel Helmets (an organization of war veterans) arose from the memory of common experiences in the trenches for the purpose of fostering the tradition of comradeship and also to protect Germany from Communism. The change of Communism other nations cannot measure. If the statesmen at Geneva claim these are military units they might as well include also fire departments, truncheons, boxing clubs and sports organizations."

CROWDS THERE

The Reichstag, summoned in special session, had awaited in most tense expectations for the Chancellor's presentation of Germany's case before the world. The diplomatic boxes were filled and thousands lined the adjacent square.

The Chancellor, beginning in an even voice, especially warned to his subject, especially when he claimed for the new young Germany rights and privileges the same as any other nation.

There were roars of applause when he scathingly detailed his account of the injuries inflicted on Germany by the victors in the war, saying these facts could not be compensated for by sanctimonious phrases.

"Germany has disarmed," the Chancellor declared. "Our army consisting of 100,000 men. The strength and quality of the police are internationally regulated."

"Assistant police established during our revolution was an exclusively political character. After the victory in the revolution this police organization already is being demobilized and will be completely dissolved before the end of the year."

EQUALITY DEMAND

"Germany now has the moral right to demand that other nations also fulfill the obligations of the Versailles Treaty. The equal promised last November was not realized."

"Germany would dissolve her entire military establishment and destroy what little armaments are left if neighboring countries do likewise," the Chancellor declared. "Contrariwise, Germany must insist at least on equality."

The German government sees in the English plan (for disarmament presented at Geneva) a possible starting point for solution of this question, but it is not desired that no destruction of the existing defense system be imposed without conceding at least qualitative equality.

"It must further demand that transformation of the present system, which is not desired but was forced on Germany, shall proceed step by step in proportion as other states actually disarm."

FIVE-YEAR PLAN

"Germany is ready to regard a five-year transitional period as adequate for re-establishing her national security in the expectation that at the end of that time Germany will really be on equal footing with others."

After complimenting Premier Mussolini for the four-power "peace club" plan he recently proposed, the Chancellor turned to Mr. Roosevelt.

The American President's proposal places Germany under warm obligations," he said. "Germany is ready without reserve to agree to this method of relieving the world."

When it is the opinion that without solution of the disarmament question no lasting economic reconstruction is possible.

"It is useless unilaterally to participate in this work of putting in order the political and economic conditions of the world."

NON-AGGRESSION MOVE

"Germany is ready to join every solemn non-aggression pact, for Germany is not thinking of aggression but of security."

We have no more earnest wish than contributing toward lasting peace by the end of the war and of the Versailles Treaty.

"Every military act in Europe, even in the event of complete success, would, if it is not accompanied by a political act, be in no relation to possible final gain."

NO THREATS

Chancellor Hitler now grew defiant. "Under no circumstances," he said, "will the German Government be compelled to sign anything that would mean continuation of Germany's disarmament. No attempt to threaten can make any sense."

"Every attempt to impose on Germany by majority vote, contrary to the clear meaning of the Versailles Treaty, the intention to remove us from the conference. . . . As a people continuously defamed, it would be difficult for Nations."

CRISIS OF PRESENT

"Germany sees the crisis of our time. For years Germany has watched the methods which would lead to this political and economic result. If these methods continue, the result cannot be doubted."

He closed his speech with an assertion that 324,000 Germans had committed suicide from despair since the Treaty of Versailles was signed.

WOUNDED IN CLASH

Racine, Wis., May 17 (Associated Press)—County authorities to-day said a farm youth was shot and critically injured when he was struck yesterday evening by the home of W. H. Gifford, father of Allen Gifford, who is president of the Progressive Dairy Company.

City Tax Aid Plan On Arrears Popular

Meanwhile the daily record of prepayments on current accounts, believed to indicate a healthy condition in public finances generally, has reached new all-time records. Payments up to and including yesterday were $441,919.30, compared with $391,531.48 on May 15 last year.

Analysis of the figures shows the increase is of greater moment however. The collection of $441,919 is on a levy of $1,748,638, amounting therefore to 26.35 per cent of the total tax bill. The 1932 figure of $391,531, being on a total levy of $1,522,000, being 25.72 per cent.

These figures show the increased collection amount to 2.79 per cent in comparison with last year. In view of the fact that the council has estimated a one per cent drop in the current collection for the year, this is an interesting figure.

All accounts payable before September 1 are subject to the interest saving at the rate of 6 per cent per annum allowed on prepayments.

which would be taken up in the transfer of the mails by air from Esquimalt to the ocean docks here.

In the meantime, Pilot Barnes may continue to bring his plane into the harbor under a temporary permit while the difficulty is straightened out.

The fear is expressed that apart from the possibility of delay to trans-Pacific vessels, costly in itself to the operators, more mails for the States may be diverted to U.S. ships with possible loss of mail revenue.

Vessels of the U.S. merchant marine playing in the trans-Pacific trade are reported to be carrying mail passengers. An increasing quantity of American mails which formerly were handled by Canadian ships of greater speed.

It is believed that the government will now see the force of the arguments raised and will permit the U.S. mail-contract plane to continue to use the Inner Harbor.

HOW IT ALL STARTED

The passenger plane which was responsible for reviving the air-base dispute was brought here by Verne C. Goss, well-known operator of Seattle. When its passengers were landed in the Inner Harbor a protest was made to Ottawa with the result that an order was issued barring all aircraft from the base.

It has been consistently argued by those in favor of the Inner Harbor for the landing of seaplane passengers, that the claims of transportation operators that shipping is endangered is ridiculous.

It is possible that the new developments will revive the demands for the use of the former landing base near the Brackman-Kar wharf at the entrance to the Inner Harbor for the use of air travel.

Less steamers are now operating in and out of the Inner Harbor than for many years.

Pattullo Pleads For Stable Government

He declared that, even after the premier had twice asked him to join him in a union government, he had been denied an exact explanation as to what form the reorganization was to take.

"Had I accepted the union government overtures at the outset," Mr. Pattullo stated amid applause, "I should have found that the support of the Conservatives themselves would be lacking. Mr. Bowser and his group and others would be heading off in another direction, and I should be left with merely Dr. Tolmie."

Turning to the Bowser non-party movement, the Liberal leader took exception to the statement being broadcast throughout the province by Mr. Bowser to the effect that a $400,000,000 loan was being recommended by the provincial Liberal party "to combat poverty."

"Now in the world could I recommend such an action when the present government's policies have reduced our credit to the point where we cannot obtain $400,000,000," he asked, explaining that he had merely expressed the opinion that the national credit should be the basis of a public works scheme to re-establish the purchasing power of the masses.

C.C.F. MOVEMENT

With regard to the C.C.F. movement, Mr. Pattullo said that he had never secured a very definite impression as to what it stood for. A perusal of Hansard led him to the decision, so far, however, that it was nothing more than straight socialism, which he found no sympathy with. A well-controlled capitalist structure, holding within it the impetus of individual effort, would conduce to better results.

"Socialism," he said, "must inevitably need force to back it up, and a few men must necessarily take charge."

Mr. Pattullo concluded by stressing the resolution adopted by the October convention of the party, which would give liberty of voting to all Liberal members to such an extent that only on a direct vote of lack of confidence could the government's position be disturbed. He also outlined in detail his proposed provincial economic council, comprised of independent experts, calculated to co-ordinate industry and remedy depressed conditions as they arose.

Final Effort Made To Agree On New Federal Ridings

Fraser Valley will be minus an area of sixty miles now in the extreme north and east.

Kootenay East will take in the Creston district in the southern portion of the province.

Kootenay West will lose the Creston district and the Revelstoke area. Nanaimo will be decreased by the taking away of Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

New Westminster is having the Burnaby district taken off.

Vancouver-Burrard will conform to the provincial constituency of Vancouver-Burrard.

Vancouver North is being extended east around Burrard Inlet, taking in a portion of Burrard municipality. On the west it will take in territory as far west as Jervis Inlet. At the same time, the riding will lose a strip on its coast line which will be included in Vancouver South.

Vancouver South will be the same as the boundaries of the provincial constituency of Vancouver South.

ciety takes precedent over party politics and narrow-minded selfish politicians. Men who have been trained in their respective calling and who have the initiative to apply their training with discretion and efficiency in the interests of the people of British Columbia.

"Also I may say our future efforts will be to eliminate at least eighty-five per cent, and possibly ninety-five per cent, of the expense of relief recipients of the present time without a semblance of any returns either to the state or any one else which cannot continue indefinitely but it is creating a distinct feature of demoralization which is getting more pronounced every day."

"By or in making a real critical survey of the industrial phase of the situation in the way of spreading the hours of work. That is by reducing, rotating or probably both, temporary, during the depression. And in conjunction with the industrial survey a general scheme of on-to-the-land of the following nature:

"Those who are on relief and have had experience in agricultural work and are desirous of being established on the land would be given preference as to locality, etc., of relinquished pre-emptions and such that have been partly improved and are annexed to grazing or for mixed or general farming."

"Others of less or probably no experience in agricultural work will be given preference as to locality, etc., of relinquished pre-emptions and such that have been partly improved and are annexed to grazing or for mixed or general farming."

CONFERENCE ON SILVER

Ontario Minister Talks With U.S. and Mexican Experts in Washington

Canadian Press
Washington, May 17.—Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, met silver experts representing the United States and Mexico in a four-hour conference at the State Department here yesterday. With the charge d'affaires at the Canadian Legation, Hume Wrong, the Ontario minister, exchanged views with representatives of the other two great silver-producing nations, seeking clarification of the white metal as a universal medium of exchange.

Mr. McCrea expressed his belief that great industrial nations depending on foreign markets for much of their welfare must not fail to consider that more than half the world population uses silver and has nothing else with which to buy imported products.

The Ontario minister pointed out that the great populations of the Orient, potentially one of the world's greatest markets, were silver-using peoples, and said acceptance of this fact by the Occidental nations would be the only method by which normally balanced trade relations between east and west could be established.

Mr. McCrea was asked by Ottawa to represent the Dominion Government at the conversations.

MANY ASPIRE IN NORTH VANCOUVER

Seven Or Eight May Enter Race For Seat in British Columbia Legislature

Canadian Press
North Vancouver, May 17.—Present indications are that in the approaching provincial election there will be a record number of candidates in a field in the North Vancouver constituency. There are now four entered and there are possibilities of several others.

Jack Loutet, representative of this riding in the last Legislature, will run as an independent. North Vancouver district Conservative Association, at a meeting several weeks ago, decided not to nominate a candidate. Ex-Alderman H. C. Anderson will carry the banner of the Socialist party of Canada, and ex-rev. J. M. Bryan, former member of the Legislature, has entered as an independent candidate.

Roger E. Bray, who styles himself the "poor man's" candidate, is also in the race, and Reeve J. B. Layland of West Vancouver is being freely spoken of as a possible Bowser entry.

North Vancouver district Liberal Association decided recently to name a candidate. A convention to select a Liberal standard-bearer will be held one week after the election writs have been issued, the executive has decided. Other probable candidates are also mentioned, so there may be seven or eight aspirants for the North Shore seat.

BY-ELECTION CHARGE MADE

Canadian Press
Kinistino, Sask., May 17.—Charges that the Kinistino constituency, where a by-election will be held May 22, due to the elevation of Charles McIntosh, former Liberal member for the riding, to the cabinet of Premier J. T. M. Anderson as a co-operating Liberal, was being flooded with hired and paid workers on behalf of the new Minister of Natural Resources, were made here yesterday by T. C. Davis, member for Prince Albert and Attorney-General in the last Liberal government.

Mr. Davis declared a deliberate effort was being made to carry the seat for Mr. McIntosh, and charged it was not the Conservative Party which was fighting the by-election, at least in the open, but a "little group of political racketeers in Regina which had the government of the province by the throat, and this is their battle to continue in control of the affairs of the province."

DEBATE NEW POWER SCHEMES

Trail, B.C., May 17.—Prediction that if the fertilizer plant of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Tadoussac should find means of using seasonal power for seven months of the year, the West Kootenay Power and Light Company would undertake further power development on the Kootenay River was made by Lorne A. Campbell, vice-president and general manager at the annual banquet of the Associated Boards of Trade here yesterday evening. Mr. Campbell traced the history of his company up to the present development of 220,000 horse power at its four plants. He stated a site at Brilliant had possibilities for development of an additional 120,000 horse power.

S. G. Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated, praised the work of the Associated Boards, whose representatives, he said, commanded every respect.

Noble Binns, Trail; C. O. Rodgers, Creston; Thomas Ogden, M.P., Penticton; Fred K. Jones of Spokane and Dr. O. H. Patrick, president of the Calgary Board of Trade, were other speakers. Mr. Patrick urged closer economic cooperation between eastern British Columbia and Alberta.

DR. J. G. HIBBEN LOSES HIS LIFE

President Emeritus of Princeton University Killed in Auto Crash

Associated Press
Woodbridge, N.J., May 17.—President Emeritus of Princeton University, Dr. J. G. Hibben, was fatally injured late yesterday in an automobile accident near a traffic intersection here. He was seventy-two years old.

Mrs. Hibben, who was riding with her husband, was hurt and taken to the Rahway, N.J., General Hospital. Dr. Hibben died in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Witnesses of the accident, a collision between the Hibben car and a bus, expressed the opinion the Princeton educator might have been seized with a stroke just before the crash, for his automobile suddenly swerved from the New York-bound lane and swung into the path of west-bound traffic.

NEW INSURANCE CONTROL TEST

Canadian Press
Montreal, May 17.—The Montreal Star says:

"The probability of another appeal to the Privy Council in London by the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia on the question of the respective jurisdiction of the Dominion and the Provincial Governments in the matter of insurance control, looms large as reports from Ottawa seem to indicate the federal authorities remain firm in their intention of retaining control over insurance business in Canada."

"B. A. Dugal, superintendent of insurance for the province of Quebec, has asked for the province of Ontario, and a British Columbia representative are again meeting this week in Montreal to consider the situation under all its aspects."

"By its last judgment, the Privy Council had deferred to the provinces jurisdiction on insurance business, and in deference to their territory and, in order to profit by this decision, the Quebec Legislature and that of Ontario, in the course of their last sessions, adopted enabling legislation that would allow them to exercise their jurisdiction as soon as Ottawa had adopted amendments to the Dominion Insurance Act giving effect to the above judgment."

According to present information, The Star says, the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia have not come to a satisfactory agreement with the Dominion authorities on the matter, and it is as seems most probable, legislation is not presented to the federal parliament before the session acceptable to them, a move to appeal may be expected.

The automobile and train collided at a level crossing, and the car was dragged 100 yards.

SENTENCED FOR TRAIN THEFTS

Arthur Hay Given Three Years After Trial in London

Canadian Press
London, May 17.—An astonishing career was revealed at the Old Bailey yesterday when Arthur Hay, aged forty-five, former inspector of the Canadian National Railways, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude when found guilty of thefts of suitcases from railway trains in all parts of the country containing property valued at nearly $15,000.

It was stated Hay was followed 3,000 miles by a railway detective. Among vicissitudes Hay was stated to have been convicted of stealing in 1908 in England, after which he went to South America and worked on a rubber plantation. He joined the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in Canada and later served at the Dardanelles during the Great War.

In 1927 he went to Australia, where he was sentenced to jail for thefts in Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane. He was also sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Manchester in 1931 for stealing jewelry.

During the railway strike in England Hay volunteered his services and came under the supervision of the late Sir Henry Thornton, who took him to Canada and appointed him an inspector on the Canadian National Railways at a salary of about $5,000.

ABDUCTORS ARE STATED FOILED

Attempt Made to Seize Noel Coward, Says New York News

Associated Press
New York, May 17.—According to The New York News, an attempt was made early yesterday to abduct Noel Coward, English actor and playwright, and Miss Elsa Maxwell, social leader, as they visited the Empire State Building and were frustrated by guards of the building.

John DeBourgh, chief of the police force at the world's largest building, noticed the four flashily-dressed men following Miss Maxwell and the actor into the building, the newspaper said, and ordered one of them away.

"That's Coward. We'll wait until he comes down," Mr. Coward and Miss Maxwell, by that time, had entered the elevator to visit the observation tower.

Mr. Coward's chauffeur, who noticed the four follow the actor into the building, hurried inside, consulted with DeBourgh and then hastened to the tower to warn his employer.

The building guards were marshalled about Mr. Coward's automobile. The chauffeur descended first, drove the car around the block and returned to a side entrance, surrounded by guards. The News said, Mr. Coward and Miss Maxwell hastened away.

The four men soon drove away from in front of the building.

JUDGES' SALARY PLAN REJECTED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 17.—The Senate, by a vote of seventeen to eleven yesterday afternoon defeated the bill to amend the Judges' Act. The vote was on second reading. The Liberal senators present all opposed it, as did three Conservatives, Senators A. D. McRae, J. S. McEwen and C. P. Beauchamp.

The bill would have called on judges of the superior and supreme courts of the provinces to retire on pension at the age of seventy-five years or have their salaries reduced to what the pension would be. The pension would be 75 per cent of the salaries.

The bill was debated Monday, when Sir Allen Aylesworth, Liberal, Toronto, opposed it as a breach of faith. Several other senators supported Sir Allen's contention. Yesterday Senator Arthur Meighen endorsed the bill as a practical step to improve the vigor and efficiency of the superior and high courts of provinces.

This is stated to be the first increase since Mr. Meighen became government party leader in the Senate that a motion sponsored by him has been defeated in the upper chamber.

The bill had already passed the House as a Government measure.

Relief Outbreak Seen in Sudbury

Canadian Press
Sudbury, Ont., May 17.—Six hundred Sudbury unemployed, striking against compulsory labor for their relief, rushed a temporary stand in O'Connor Park yesterday from which W. Nasmith and others were attempting to address them and hurried Nasmith to the ground. They ripped the stand down and threw planks into a ditch.

Nasmith was leader of a delegation that made demands on the city council that he be previously appointed and that Nasmith did not represent the unemployed.

Police on the grounds did not interfere.

RADIO RULES ARE CRITICIZED BY M.P.'S

Liberals Draw Attention of Commons to Possible Bars to Free Speech at Election Times

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 17.—Liberal members of the Commons took a few more potshots at the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission yesterday before the House passed the government bill increasing its powers. The bill passed without division after being amended in several places.

Once again the commission was criticized for its program, its regulations and its switching of wave lengths. It was charged with constituting itself a censor of the air, with the right to examine manuscripts before radio speeches and, lastly, Liberals referred to the possibility of a Conservative monopoly of the air, especially at election time.

The bill, to remain in force until next April, empowers the commission to hire its own technical and professional officers without the competitive examination system of the Civil Service Commission. The latter commission is to appoint clerks, stenographers and other employees. The Radio Commission will have the right to expend an amount equal to its collections from receiving licenses and advertising, but must submit an annual budget.

Premier Bennett again made a plea for a "fair chance" for the commission, which had been in office only a few months.

One regulation of the commission was attacked in particular—the one stipulating no speaker could attack existing laws or Canada. Opposition members said this would prohibit them from expressing their views on government legislation at election time.

This regulation, in the opinion of A. W. Neil, Independent, Comox-Alberni, would make it impossible at election times for a candidate to criticize the government. He felt the Radio Commission was going to be "a curse to the people of the country," that it was going to develop into an annoyance, like the Canadian National Railways on a smaller scale.

Murder Charges Against Prosecutor

Associated Press
Mayville, Ky., May 17.—Andrew Fox, twenty-seven, city prosecutor, was arrested here yesterday on warrants charging murder of his parents.

The warrants were sworn to by Coroner Albert S. Knox on the basis of what he said he believed was "definite evidence" connecting Fox with the deaths. The prosecutor was arrested and held in the Mason County jail.

His father and mother—Claiborne Fox, sixty, and Emma, fifty-three, were found dead April 27 after fire had started in their home. Officials said the fire started on the bed on which they lay in a first-floor room, and that the two evidently were dead or near death before the fire broke out. The blaze, they said, was incendiary.

CHANCELLOR HITLER ADOPTS CONCILIATORY TONE

Chancellor Hitler's pronouncement in the German Reichstag to-day was not the fiery oration which the world had expected. It was a moderate statement of Germany's position—what the head of her government considers the country has a right to demand—and it included a grateful endorsement of President Roosevelt's plan to relieve the international crisis and other problems which are besetting the world.

The Nazi leader explained that the National Socialist revolution contemplated, first, preventing a Communist overthrow; second, leading millions of unemployed back to productive labor. He did not consider these purposes in any way contravened the interests of the rest of the world. On the contrary, he would like, in behalf of the National Government and of the entire national resurgence, to bear testimony that they are animated by the deepest understanding for similar feelings and attitudes, as well as the justified claims to life of other people.

In his reference to the Treaty of Versailles the Chancellor complained bitterly of an arrangement which brought about a forced defencelessness of one part of the nations as compared with the exaggerated armaments of others. With this in mind he declared Germany demanded the disarmament of the other nations to the point of equality with his own country because "equality is moral, legal and sensible." He sought to leave the impression, incidentally, that the famous "storm troops" and the "steel-helmets" were of importance only as a guarantee of internal order and a bulwark against Communism.

Hitler's specific reference to the Roosevelt appeal for disarmament included a pledge in behalf of the entire German nation, and especially the young Nazi movement, that it would go as far as any nation in disarming, even to the extent of scrapping its whole military equipment, provided other powers did the same. His country likewise was ready to join any non-aggression pact in the "realization that the high-minded proposal of the American President to inject the mighty United States as the guarantor of peace in Europe would mean great tranquillization for all who would desire peace."

Until the world has any reason to do otherwise, it must consider Chancellor Hitler's speech as a genuine expression of the opinions held by the majority of the German people. But he must not be surprised if there is a disposition in some quarters to contrast its mild and conciliatory tone with his own outbursts of recent days—not to mention Vice-Chancellor von Papen's typical Junker oration last week—and the intense nationalistic doctrines he has instilled into the minds of the youth of his adopted country. Another point arises. What will be the reaction of Hitler's young enthusiasts who have been fed on brimstone and discover now that the diet is to be changed to milk?

It is not unnatural, of course, that Hitler should use as a stepping-stone to power the argument among the youth of Germany that the Treaty of Versailles imposed a form of humiliation and duress upon them for a crime for which they were not in the least responsible. But the props were removed from under that argument as soon as he followed it in practice by policies which amounted to defiance of the world at large—policies which, if persisted in, would have brought worse disaster to a German generation as yet unborn. We say "would have brought" because the Chancellor's speech contains a ray of hope that Fascism in Germany is ready, as Fascism in Italy evidently is, to play its part in the political and economic reconstruction of the world.

A notable omission in Hitler's speech is any reference to the return of the German colonies. Not so long ago a prominent plank in the Nazi platform was a demand for the restoration of these territories. The Chancellor's reference to Germany's practical disarmament while "other nations are bristling with armaments" gave him an opportunity to make direct reference to France. The dispatch says he demanded fiercely: "What more concrete security can France want from Germany?" So far so good; but only recently he described France as Germany's "eternal enemy." His allusion to France's security, of course, does not imply that he has changed his mind in this regard. The whole tenor of his speech, on the other hand, is far from provocative. But what will count most in Germany's case is action, and it is this which will be closely watched by the rest of the world.

THE GREAT TRANSFORMATION IN SOUTH AFRICA

The general election in South Africa being held to-day is not troubling the minds of Premier Hertzog or former Premier and now Deputy-Premier General Smuts. The return of the coalition government was assured when seventy-eight members out of a total membership in the House of Assembly of 148 pledged themselves to support the new administration were returned unopposed. The ballot will merely decide the margin of majority.

This new development in South African politics is somewhat unique in the British Empire—a strange contrast, for instance, with what has happened in the Irish Free State. For half a lifetime Hertzog and Smuts have been sworn enemies, not only politically but also in matters pertaining to South Africa's association with the rest of the Britannic Commonwealth, while at the beginning of the century they were comrades in arms fighting the soldiers of the empire on South African soil.

While Smuts was campaigning in the allied cause in South Africa in the Great War, Hertzog fomented a rebellion and got himself squelched. Then began the political battle, with Smuts the imperialist and Hertzog the nationalist—the latter all for separation of South Africa from the empire. Then Hertzog capitulated to Labor and removed the republican block from the political platform. The result was his victory over the Smuts, or South African, party, his first attendance at an Imperial Conference, and his return to his native land to proclaim that partnership in the Britannic Commonwealth was not so bad after all.

Now the curtain has gone up revealing these two distinguished and able statesmen, originally firm friends, afterwards bitter enemies in two connections, and now with their arms around one another's necks, the picture of thorough understanding.

PREMIER PRODUCES HIS MYSTERY MAN

Yesterday Premier Tormie turned conjurer, opening his repertoire of magic, ambitiously enough, with no less a stunt than the celebrated cabinet trick which Hermann the Great, Keller and Houdini always staged as the very climax of their performances. The feat, when dexterously performed, always mystifies the onlookers and, it must be admitted, the Premier mystified them yesterday, while to-day the more they think about it the more mysterious it appears to them. There, stood the empty cabinet on the stage, with the Premier holding a wand in one hand and a dark robe in the other. He proposed, he said in his advance notices, to translate a human being into that empty cabinet.

Who would it be? That was part of the trick, and nobody but himself knew the identity of the person who was to pass invisibly into the cabinet. Even the amateur conjurer's assistants, members of his ministry, did not know, and they, themselves, had gone into an empty cabinet in somewhat similar, though less mysterious, circumstances in other days. All they knew about this particular performance was that somebody, male or female, would do the same thing when the Premier waved his wand.

After the cabinet had been inspected by suspicious or curious spectators, and found to be empty, the Premier covered it with his dark robe, waved his wand and loudly cried, "William Middleton Dennis, Minister of Labor, come forth." The door of the cabinet burst open, and out bobbed the mysterious stranger. There was no applause, even from the helpers. Everybody was too much surprised for that, for the new arrival was unknown to all of them. They had expected the smiling appearance of somebody more or less prominent in provincial affairs, whether in public or private life, and they were fooled to the top of their bent.

Some thirty years ago Mr. Joseph Martin performed a similar piece of conjuration, with the difference that he translated two excellent gentlemen, instead of one, from the unknown into the cabinet. One, who came from Cumberland, where he was in business in a small way, emerged as Minister of Finance, and the other, who was a Lilloet farmer, burst forth as Minister of Agriculture. This also was on the eve of an election, which almost completely obliterated Mr. Martin's cabinet, and the mysterious strangers after two fleeting months of eminence were translated back to Cumberland and Lilloet, respectively, the electors being the magicians in the final act.

Mr. Dennis's qualifications for a cabinet position of Minister of Labor as recited by the Premier are obscure, particularly in this trying period. He is head of the Vancouver council of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor. This organization is distinct from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, with which most of the prominent Canadian labor leaders are identified, and which is affiliated with the big labor organizations in the United States. He is comparatively unknown in the province. He has had no legislative or administrative experience in any form, and therefore is now breaking ground which probably is newer to him than it has been to any other cabinet appointee in many years. And he is even newer to the ground that he will try to break.

The appointment of Mr. Dennis also involves an increase in the number of salaried ministerial offices in the government, for the Department of Labor always has been administered by the head of one of the other basic departments. Hon. Wm. Mackenzie, Minister of Mines, was Minister of Labor up to yesterday. Are we to assume from this creation of a new salaried position that the Premier's conception of cabinet reorganization means an enlargement of a ministry which already is top-heavy? We know, of course, that Hon. Mr. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works, and Hon. Mr. Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, are to retire at the end of this month, but those portfolios probably will be filled by others. The Premier's idea of cabinet reorganization evidently is calculated to be not only a mysterious affair but also a costly business. We can stand the mystery, but we can not carry any more expense. Government in British Columbia is rapidly degenerating into a farce.

Loose Ends

A notable conversion—a three-cent stamp—a discouraging attempt to save our economic souls—a base conspiracy against our vests—and a poetic revenge next door.

By H. H. W.

CONVERSION

IT IS RECORDED in the press that some unknown British Colonialist was so moved by a combination of Mr. G. G. McGeer's economic theories and the Oxford Movement, that he confessed a violation of Mr. Jones's new meal tax. So complete, indeed, was his confession that he sent Mr. Jones a three-cent stamp to cover the violation, and the heart of Mr. Jones glowed with a new fervor (and the Finance Minister's heart don't glow much these days), until he found that the stamp had been used and cancelled. Now, I can understand that. I can understand why the Oxford Movement can make men confess their sins and change the lives of thousands because it deals in simple, fundamental, human matters. I can understand a man being snatched from sin and gathered into the fold of religion; but I confess I had not expected many to be snatched by scholars like Mr. McGeer from economic ignorance and gathered into the fold of currency reform. Spiritual conversion is natural, emotional, instinctive. It requires inspiration but no deep cerebral activity. Whereas economic conversion, which Mr. McGeer is attempting, is a much more difficult matter since it requires a fairly high degree of intelligence and a good deal of thought. This is a very rare phenomenon.

That is why I admire the courage of reformers like Mr. McGeer, who are not afraid to stand on a platform and talk to people about things they don't like to hear; to make them think hard and ardently, which is the last thing they want to do. But, alas, that is what politics has got to come to. Gone forever, with the vanished pre-war world, are the splendid days when governments could solve all our problems by raising or lowering the tariff or building a new railway into the Peace River. From now on, the election has got to be understood in terms of currency and credit and a gritty tribe of other dull matters, if the electorate is going to govern itself. Mr. McGeer has sensed that. He goes about with a flaming torch of higher economics and with a splendid faith in the intelligence of the public. He knows that unless we master these matters, and elect governments to deal with our present-day problems, instead of the problems that died with the war, then we are going to be wrecked completely; or we are going to hand the government over to a few able fellows, as they have done in most European countries.

DISCOURAGING

THIS ENLIGHTENMENT, however, is a formidable task. The electors will forgive a public man almost anything, any scandal, any idiotic waste of money, any interference with the welfare of the country. But it instantly resents any attempt to jar its customary notions, or alter its old prejudices. It will usually punish with a consuming passion any statesman who appeals to its brains instead of its emotions. That is why it is always so dangerous to campaign on a real public issue. Much safer to campaign on some unimportant side issue and deal with these larger matters after election while the public isn't looking, which has been the almost invariable technique of successful governments. However, I suppose that the McGeer will succeed in educating the electorate after a while. It may take a generation, but in the end the people will learn. The only question is whether by that time, it won't be too late.

Meanwhile it must be rather uphill work to convert economic awareness into a man about the intricacies of currency and credit to have him respond by sending a used three-cent stamp to Mr. Jones. To-day I tried, while driving a farmer to town, to impart some economic awareness and light to him, to tell him all I knew about managed credit, currency and all that sort of thing. (All I know can easily be imparted in the four miles between here and town.) I talked to him earnestly. I outlined the new economic world that we live in. I discussed deflation and inflation, gold reserves and the need of rebuilding our social system. The fellow listened carefully, earnestly, in thoughtful silence. I felt I had made a convert. Then as he got out he said he thought things would be all right and everybody prosperous if the Canadian Government would only have sense enough to stop the importation of New Zealand butter and give his herd of cows a real chance.

SHEET ANCHOR

THE MERCHANT Tailors' Association of America is breaking out with its usual spring fever. It is proposing to dress men for evening with vests of robin's egg blue, claret, royal blue, corn color, pastel shades and (sic) "other unobtrusive colors." And then the Merchant Tailors' Association adds this heart-rending blarney: "It is a lamentable fact that a man to-day may go anywhere in the country and appear at any hour of the day or night in a blue serge suit and be properly attired." On the contrary, that is almost the only creditable fact left about men in this generation—that they have refused to be reformed by the Merchant Tailors' Association, that they have been stampeded by everything but fashion, which long ago overwhelmed their wits. Indeed, in a world shaken by economic upheavals and political revolutions, his clothes are about the only thing a man has left to tie to a sort of spiritual refuge and sheet anchor against the currents and complexities of these times.

So long as men cling to simple clothes, there is some hope, for a good case could be made out to show that all the world's great advances have been made in periods of plain dress. Probably men's highest intellectual level was reached in Greece, when men went to graduation dress.

about all day in night shirts; and certainly one of the most remarkable figures of the present wears nothing else. So long as men can go about safely in blue serge suits, so long as the Merchant Tailors' Association remains in despair, the rest of us can retain our hope. But when you see me in a vest of robin's egg blue, claret, royal blue, pastel shades or other "unobtrusive colors," you may know that the last bulwark against revolution and chaos has been swept away.

REVENGE

EVER since he caused the exile of Tim, the terrier, the little girl and the little boy next door have had it in for Mr. Beak. They attempted many methods of poetic revenge, among them the calling of names from behind the hedge, the opening of the gate to Mr. Beak's chicken yard and a general whispering campaign of slander throughout the neighborhood. To-day the feud assumed more dangerous proportions.

Mr. Beak, you must understand, had erected a large scarecrow to protect his peas from quail, who found the scarecrow's arms a good place to roost while they digested the peas. Well, when Mr. Beak came home from town this afternoon he was appalled to see his scarecrow move up and down and then from side to side. He began to think he had taken a beer or so too many at his club. Then, when the scarecrow started to walk away, Mr. Beak thought he would swear off paring wine for the summer. His first impulse was to go home and take a nap but, being a brave man, Mr. Beak started in pursuit of the scarecrow. He couldn't catch it, however, because it had four legs to his two. They were bare legs and fat legs and they moved with surprising rapidity. Eventually he found the clothes of his scarecrow, bowler hat, blue overcoat and grey pants lying flat on the ground in the oak woods; but its legs had departed. The little girl and the little boy from next door came over here, quite out of breath, to assure me they had punished Mr. Beak properly this time.

MacDonald Acclaims Roosevelt's Non-aggression Speech

London Times Comments Favorably, But Some Papers Are More Critical

Associated Press
 London, May 17.—A monument which the future will regard as a great landmark in the march of human progress is the evaluation by Premier Ramsay MacDonald of President Roosevelt's plan to the nations of the world. He hailed it as such yesterday evening at a dinner of the Pilgrims' Society here, at the same time indicating no reserve in his estimate of the value of the President's declaration. On the contrary, he gave the impression it was fully in accord with his own ideas.

It was apparent, however, the message produced disappointment in some newspaper and political circles. These critics voiced disappointment at the President's non-committal attitude. The London Times denoted the message as the "most stirring appeal to nations of the world yet heard for concerted action in political and economic spheres."

"By abstaining from taking advantage of the privileges of a neutral in an international conflict," the newspaper added, "the United States would enormously facilitate the work of those countries which were ready to penalize an illegal resort to force. Great Britain particularly, could take action, relieved of the risk of embroilment with the American Navy."

TELEGRAPH DISAPPOINTED
 The London Daily Telegraph, on the other hand, expressed disappointment at the President's non-committal attitude. It did not see the expression as an admission to the consultative pact.

"What Europe desires from America," The Telegraph declared, "is an assurance that the latter would, in event of war breaking out, promptly manifest disapproval of the aggressor by some action to its detriment, such as refusal of protection to United States nationals trading with the offending nation. . . . American intervention might resolve into a disarmament difficulty if it assumed concrete, practical form."

The fear of American ill will and of a commercial and financial embargo would deter the peace breakers. Roosevelt's manifesto points the way, but does not lead us on."

MACDONALD'S SPEECH
 "This is an historic day," declared Premier MacDonald in his impassioned speech before a distinguished gathering of 200 members of the Pilgrims' Society.

"America has boldly and openly cut her moorings and has launched herself in full sail, with courage and with fine determination, into new waters. 'Henceforth America by her own declaration is to be indifferent to nothing that concerns the peace of the world,' he said.

Mr. MacDonald rose to the heights of his oratorical style, not only to acclaim Mr. Roosevelt, but to defy his own critics in Great Britain with a challenge that he and his Cabinet colleagues in the National Government proposed to adopt all means at their disposal to further European conciliation.

"Where there is jealousy there will be confidence. Where there is enmity there will be peace," he predicted.

In slow, measured tones, without mentioning Hitler's name, he clearly warned the German Chancellor against any threat to the peace of Europe the latter's speech to-day before Reichstag. He said:

"We may count on the co-operation of France and Italy and the invincible influence of the United States and even stronger terms can be after the pronouncement from Washington—in showing disapproval every policy that threatens to become a menace to the peace of Europe."

GERMAN SITUATION
 "We must listen to speeches, must note actions and their effect. At the same time, I deny any desire to interfere in the internal affairs of Germany."

"We cannot be indifferent to German situation. The peace of Europe is the peace of the world. By to-day's declaration, the United States is not to be indifferent to either. We are partners in misfortune. We are partners in misfortune," with the effect on the audience of distinguished Britons and Americans.

BRANCH ENDORSES PENSION PROTEST

Action of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion in requesting an adjustment of Dominion regulations which do not provide for pensioners' children after they have reached the age of seventeen years, was endorsed by the Britannia branch at a meeting yesterday evening.

The protest to Ottawa has been made on the grounds that relief is granted children until they are twenty-one, and pensioners should be eligible for the same conditions if their children are unemployed.

Amendments to the Soldiers' Settlement Act were also announced at the meeting, officials explaining that any payments made by returned men from 1933 to 1936, whether for interest or principal, would be credited to him as if double the amount had been paid. Interest charges paid for 1932 will be refunded.

The executive of the Provincial Command will meet in Victoria on August 2, prior to the opening of the provincial convention.

POLITICAL ASPECTS PROBED

The Alberta minister also denied there was any collusion in obtaining the divorce as the plaintiff contends. During the day the minister detailed his efforts to have his name kept intact and his plea against his wife's intentions to leave him.

Neil D. MacLean, K.C., counsel for Mrs. Cora McPherson, had not finished with his cross-examination of the afternoon adjournment and will continue it to-morrow. He confined most of his early cross-examination to political aspects of the case, wanting to know how much Premier J. E. Brown and Attorney-General J. F. Lymburn knew about it, and how much Mr. McPherson's colleagues in the government were told about the case while it progressed through the stages of divorce, separation, divorce and remarriage.

ATTOENEY-GENERAL'S ADVICE
Mr. McPherson testified he kept "his chief" informed of things, and sought advice from Mr. Lymburn as a colleague and friend and did not seek advice from the Attorney-General as a solicitor. He did, however, engage Mayne Reid, a member of the legal firm which Mr. Lymburn heads, to ask the Attorney-General for the name of a good barrister to engage for his divorce proceedings, as he did not "want a shyster lawyer."

The Minister of Public Works also testified his wife indicated to him early in 1932 she was considering an action against her husband. He pointed out to her he had done nothing on which to base an action, she replied, "I only need to start one; I don't need to win it."

He denied that at the time he divorced his wife he had any intention of marrying Mrs. Helen Matten. He told that Mrs. Helen Matten, his second wife, was named as co-respondent in Mr. McPherson's divorce action.

Mr. McPherson said a woman came to him last January, and, using an assumed name, demanded he give money to his ex-wife. He testified he told the woman to "go back to those who sent you and tell them I am not going to support an action against me." At that time Mrs. McPherson's present action was pending.

St. John's Young
People Enjoyed
Treasure Hunt

The hunt for treasure brought many young people down to St. John's "treasure hunt" on Monday evening. The hunt was planned by the city and the treasure was hidden in the city.

A short business meeting followed the hunt. Anyone interested in joining the branch's tennis club, which commences this week, will be welcome. It was decided that the beach picnic to be held on May 29, will be attended at the Oak Bay beach. Everyone attending is asked to meet at the end of the car line at 8:30 o'clock that night. Visitors to the meeting on Monday included: Bonita Ross, Jean Hume, Margaret Smith and Rita Motterhead.

VICTORIANS SAIL FOR ENGLAND

Archdeacon E. P. Laycock and Mrs. Laycock, who left Victoria recently for England to make their home, are shown above on the Cunard liner, Aurania, on which they sailed from Montreal. "I like the West very much and leave it with a good deal of regret on account of my warm friendships formed. I shall always have warm spots in my heart for British Columbia," was his parting message at Montreal.

Narrow Nationalism And Tariffs Barriers To World
Progress, Women Are Told

Dr. T. A. Rickard Addresses
Canadian Club on "The Interdependence of Peoples"

Urges Closer Co-operation Between English-speaking Peoples

"If the English-speaking peoples will only work together, they can accomplish much for the world. For years Great Britain has been the sheet anchor of the world; let us hope the United States will provide the steam to accelerate the progress of human industry. We must hang together or we shall hang separately."

This plea for the closer co-operation of the British and American peoples was the concluding note in the address given by Dr. T. A. Rickard, internationalist, well-known mining engineer and author, before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, in which he reviewed tariff policies, narrow nationalism, and the recent depression in their respective effects upon international affairs.

Quoting as his text the words of Sir Arthur Slater, "the inescapable, interdependence of the peoples of the earth," embodying a thought on the recognition of which civilization to-day depends, Dr. Rickard declared the world had suffered from a narrow nationalism as expressed in both wars and tariffs, neither of which recognize the interdependence of peoples.

"Patriotism" only too often starts with the idea that a country is the greatest country in the world because you are born in it," observed Dr. Rickard, as he proceeded to show that nationalism was a comparatively new phenomenon, and a distortion in the present-day sense of the word, of comparative recent growth.

Dr. Rickard recalled that for six years he had been president of the English-speaking Union in California, whose purpose was to encourage closer understanding between the English-speaking people of the world. He deplored the attitude of those Canadians who chose to ignore events and happenings in the United States, observing that "whatever is done in the United States will have its repercussions in Canada; and whatever is done in Ottawa will have its repercussions on the other side."

The speaker also took occasion to criticize the tendency on the part of some publicists and speakers to make disparaging remarks at the expense of other nationalities. He characterized "the height of bad taste the sneers at the American people, whose hospitality he had just accepted, which marred the very brilliant address made in Victoria recently by that eminent historian Philip Guedalla." Mr. Guedalla's remarks were proof that, though a brilliant historian, he was not a sagacious man, in the opinion of the speaker.

UNECONOMIC SLOGANS

Recalling the events in Great Britain in 1931, when that country went off the gold standard, Dr. Rickard said he was thrilled at the response with which the British people met the suggestion of their able leaders. But at the same time he regretted the frequency of the posters in London exhorting the people to "Buy British," "Buy American," and "Buy Canadian," as a negation of the basic principle of the interdependence of peoples. William Randolph Hearst's slogan, "Buy American" was an equally foolish ignoring of the fundamental principle—that the imports of one country are the exports of another, the basis of world trade, he observed.

TRADE AND TARIFFS

After touching upon Great Britain's departure from her long tradition of free trade, the speaker pointed out that the recent steps towards reciprocal trade agreements were, in a measure, a return to lower tariffs, and

GOLD AND THE DEPRESSION

The steps leading to and following the going off the gold standard by various countries were reviewed by Dr. Rickard, both in their effect in stimulating the mining of gold and as a factor in the more recent depression. That depression had been attributed to a multiplicity of causes, but inasmuch as it was due to an insufficiency of metallic currency this represented merely a repetition of what had happened many times previously in history.

The growth of commerce through exploration and the annihilation of space by easier and more rapid communication, the increasing population of the world and the resultant closer alliance with other countries, and the refusal of the more backward peoples of the earth to accept paper currency in payment for commodities, had all led to too big a drain upon the gold currency of the world, and the consequent insufficiency of metallic currency was a big factor in the slump.

"India and China have been sinks for the precious metals since the Augustan age," noted Dr. Rickard, in India a woman carries her dowry on her person in the form of silver bangles, the maharajahs carry much of their fabulous wealth in the form of gold and jewels, with the result that the Orient had always absorbed much of the world's precious metals. When India went off the gold standard it resulted in the demonetization of a large part of the world and disorganized trade, said Dr. Rickard, in his advocacy of bi-metallicism as a safeguard against such happenings in future.

Another cause of the depression was attributed to the great loss of mankind in the war, its terrible depredations on "those beautiful young men, who were used as cannon fodder" had robbed the world of many of its potential leaders, whose loss the world was sorely feeling to-day.

SHABBY BOOKKEEPING

On the subject of war debts, "shabby bookkeeping and miserable accounting" had robbed the world of many of its potential leaders, whose loss the world was sorely feeling to-day.

The United States had lost sight of the fact that after the war her position had changed from a debtor to a creditor country. She was urged to recognize the economic axiom that creditor countries cannot be paid in currency, but only in goods and services, had contributed largely to the world's financial straits.

FLUCTUATING EXCHANGE

The fluctuations in international exchange were also touched upon, and Dr. Rickard expressed the hope that the coming World Economic Conference would effect a stabilization in international exchange.

Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, first vice-president and convenor of the program for the club, introduced the speaker, who was thanked for his very able address by Mrs. W. G. Wilson, who presided.

Miss Muriel Thompson sang "Linden Lea" (Vaughan Williams) and "Gathering Daffodils" very artistically, and Mrs. W. G. Wilson presided at the piano by Mrs. Clifford Ward.

MINISTER GIVES
ADVICE TO WIVES

Canadian Press
Westcliff-on-Sea, Eng., May 17.—Rev. T. H. Curtis, vicar of St. Paul's Church, gives this advice to wives: "If your husband is quiet, don't imagine he is sulky. He may be trying to think of a suitable present for you." "At the end of a tiring day, don't ask him 'What shall we have for dinner to-morrow?' That is your job." "Do not expect too much of your husband. Remember he is only a man. He has not your advantages."

WELL-KNOWN VICTORIAN IS BRIDE OF RUSSIAN PRINCE

Canadian Press
Toronto, May 17.—Mrs. Jenny Ross, widow of Harry Ross of Victoria, B.C., was quietly married to a prince of old Russia in the private chapel at the residence of Horace, Smith, yesterday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Butchart of "Benvenuto," Tod Inlet, Victoria. The groom was Prince Andre Chirinsky Chikhmatoff, son of Princess Olga Chikhmatoff of Paris, France. They met in Paris.

Both are of distinguished families. The groom is the son of the aide-de-camp to the Grand Duke Michael of the Czar's nobility, and the bride of a well-known Canadian family of Owen Sound that has gained an international place in industry and finance. They leave for Victoria to-morrow.

Mrs. Ross was dressed in an ensemble of Elizabeth blue, with a collar of coq feathers and wore ropes of pearls. Her father is the owner of the famous sunken flower gardens just outside of Victoria which attract the attention of all visitors to the Pacific Coast city.

Prince Andre has lived in Paris since 1920 when he escaped with his people from the Bolsheviks, he later said in an interview. He explained a prince in Russia did not mean being of the blood royal. It was simply a title of nobility.

Presentation To
Dr. Felton And
His Bride-elect

An interesting little ceremony took place at the City Hall yesterday afternoon when Mayor Leeming, in the presence of about fifty members of the staff, made a presentation to Dr. Richard Felton, medical health officer, and Miss Olive Lamb, his secretary, whose marriage is to take place shortly. The presentation included a handsome Westminster chime clock, accompanied by an illuminated address, together with a beautiful bouquet of tulips for the bride-elect.

ADDRESS OF FELICATION
Mayor Leeming read the address, which was couched in the following terms:

"On this, the occasion of the retirement from the civic service of you, Miss Lamb, in anticipation of your marriage in the near future to the head of your department, Dr. Felton, we, your fellow members of the City Hall staff, are pleased to extend to both of you our very kindest regards and best wishes."

"To you, Dr. Felton, who have chosen and are following as your life's work a high calling to the service of those in pain and suffering, and with whom we have as yet been officially associated for only a few years, we wish to say that we fully recognize the manifold duties of your office and its accompanying heavy responsibilities, and that we appreciate the conscientious and progressive manner in which you have applied energetic effort to your work, and we trust that you may be spared to continue for many years to practice your profession in our city. Our congratulations are offered to you at this time on having won for your wife, a young lady of fine character and integrity from a very highly respected family."

W.B.A. MET.—Queen Alexandra Review No. 1 held its regular meeting at the K. of C. Hall on Monday with President Mrs. Mabel Burnett in the chair. Six new members were initiated into the order. Reports from the rally, sick and auditing committees, were read and adopted. The memorial service is being planned for June 11 and further details will be arranged at a later date. The secretary of the Pioneer Club reported on the club activities and asked that they be given charge of the next social meeting, which was granted. Mrs. Caroline O'Brien, provincial field director, congratulated the order on its fine floor work at the recent Nanaimo rally. She thought much credit was due to their captain, Miss Annie Reid. Mrs. O'Brien then gave an interesting talk on the benefits of the order. A splendid health talk was given by Mrs. La Gailias, health supervisor. Presentations were made by Mrs. O'Brien to President Mrs. Burnett for the capable manner in which she conducted the ceremonies at Nanaimo and to Mrs. Schmeiss for her work as convener of the rally. Refreshments brought the meeting to a close. The Pioneer Club will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Laing, 1122 Ormond Street, on Friday, June 2.

RICH FOODS MAY CAUSE STIES

One of the common causes for boils, sties and blackheads in babies is the use of too rich a milk or over-emphasis on other rich and fatty foods. These are not the only causes, of course, but often skimming the milk and cutting down on the amount of butter, bacon, cod liver oil, and greasy foods result in clearing the complexion and ending the succession of sties or boils.

NEGLECT OF COMMON
CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTERPrevent This Condition With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious disease.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

MRS. SWINTONWife of Major Allan Swinton of Victoria Dies in Winnipeg

The many Victorian friends of Mrs. Madelyn Hubbell Swinton, wife of Major Allan Swinton of Metchoin, will be deeply shocked to learn of her death, which occurred yesterday evening at her mother's home in Winnipeg.

Swinton left with her husband in January for New York, via the Panama Canal, and while he went on to England for a brief visit she returned to her former home in Winnipeg, remaining there since February.

Born in Moose Jaw, Mrs. Swinton went to Winnipeg as a child and was educated there. She was married in 1925 to Major Swinton, who is one of Canada's younger authors, and shortly afterwards they came to Victoria, residing first at Esquimalt and latterly at Metchoin. Mrs. Swinton was well-known as a horsewoman.

She is survived by her husband, Mrs. H. G. Hubbell, one sister, Marguerite, in Montreal, and two brothers, Buller and Edward, in Winnipeg.

YOUR
CHILDRENby Olive Roberts Bartlett
1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.MAKING SECRETS OF MONEY PROBLEMS

Why it is that some children grow up with haunting fear of poverty while others reach maturity without the slightest sense of financial responsibility?

We reply glibly. "Because some are too poor, and others too rich." Yes, alas, this is only too true. But it is not the answer because we can take any level we choose, poor, rich, or the larger medium, and find children with the same advantages—or disadvantages—as unlike as it is humanly possible to be.

Mr. Smith, say, earns $100 a month and lives on B Street. He has a wife and two children. Next door in the same row lives Mr. Brown with the same family and the same salary. The children are of approximate age.

DIFFERENT PATHS

Both families have about the same number of emergencies, illness and all that. Both Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brown are hard workers as are their husbands. But the dividing wall between the houses is more than a wall. It is a sign post that points east and west.

The children Smith and the children Brown although they are good friends and play together are routed in absolutely opposite directions, both leading nowhere.

No one notices this until the children are fifteen or so, at about the time the neighbors begin to say, "Billy Smith and Johnny Brown will soon be able to help their parents."

But their mothers aren't so sure. For the first time they begin to lie awake nights and wonder.

PLAINT OF POVERTY

Since he was a baby, Billy Smith, with his sister, had one long plaint poured into his ears, the plaint of poverty. The troubles of his parents became his, the dread of the future, the meanness and unfairness of the world, the bitter inferiority of the poor.

Every inch of the struggle he shared at a time when his baby mind distorted and exaggerated. Never too strong of will, putty pounded into queer shapes by complicated adult problems he never quite understood, he had reached puberty with a sense of defeat. Instead of encouragement he had been fed on bitterness. Confidence or courage were words unknown.

BOTH EXTREMES HAD

Johnny Brown was a spender. His parents had sacrificed and denied themselves to subvert their children. Every bit of struggle had been kept a secret. Johnny and his sister must never suspect how really poor they were. Money problems never met their ears. It was quite to be expected that the world would do for Johnny what his parents did. A maximum of pleasure with a minimum of work.

Johnny too was defeated before he began. Such an attitude is as fatal as the other.

Two extremes, both bad! Every household should consider its children entities in its problems, but not to the extent of either discouraging or spoiling. Some things they may be spared, some things they may be spared, some things they may be spared, some things they may be spared.

A normal viewpoint of family affairs it will be their best weapon later to be normal, energetic and unprejudiced.

New York, May 17.—"Tablecloth notes" from the farewell dinner to Madame Minister Ruth Bryan Owen, U.S. minister to Denmark.

Anne Morgan was the only one at the table of honor on the dais who in any way acknowledged the Depression.

She wore the same blue evening dress that she wore last November for Amelia Earhart's banquet.

Palmer Putnam turns out to be a man with a fine sense of humor, a man who can retain it even at the foot of the table, husband that he is to Amelia Earhart!

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived late. Woman-like, she had been trying on summer dresses. Mrs. Owen's twelve-year-old daughter, Helen, came in after dinner and pulled her chair up between her mother and Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt is the kind of woman all children feel free to pull up a chair next to—she always makes them welcome.

Ruth Bryan Owen has more than a hint of her father, the late William Jennings Bryan, in her. Her voice has that same undercurrent of sentimentality that almost draws tears. And, like her father before her, she always saves the day with a humorous story just when everybody's reaching for a handkerchief.

Grover Whalen was present, with a red gardenia he reserves for state occasions. There, too, were suave Samuel Untermyer, debonair Daniel Frohman with a fair dinner companion, pompous Bernard MacFadden, Irvin Cobb, who got weary and nodded; alert George Creel, dignified Will Hays, Banker Jules Roche, Senator Royce Copeland; Ida Tarbell, I. A. R. Wylie, Will Irwin and his wife, Inez Haynes Irwin, and glamorous Fannie Hurst.

her tooth when she was nineteen. Mrs. Dahlberg has willed it to her daughter. But she is afraid that the daughter may not wear it in her mouth.

Bernard Radziewicz, a personable New York taxi driver, goes Mrs. Dahlberg one better. He has two diamonds in his teeth, a rather large diamond in the fourth upper tooth from the front, set down deep into the gold surface, and a smaller one in the second upper tooth from the left, also a gold tooth.

"It's a sad story," Bernard tells customers who catch his schilling smile. "I used to be a bootlegger out in the middle west. Had a swell car, lots of money and a grand girl. One day when she went to the dentist's with me, my girl had a ring on with these two diamonds in it. She thought a lot of me, so she asked the dentist if he could put them in my teeth. He did."

"I turned honest. I lost my car and I lost my girl. I'm hardly making a living. But I still have my diamonds!"

SUMMER COIFFURES ARE MOLDED

To emphasize the wide shoulders, which still persist, summer heads are carefully molded.

Hair is worn sleek, yet soft, and meticulously groomed. The long bob has the majority of votes. But wear it curled up in the back or fastened in a little knot at the nape of the neck, high, or swirl it so it comes short in the back. No ragged necklines this summer.

The best basis for the ideal 1933 summer coiffure is the permanent wave—as it is given to-day—loose and natural looking. When it is done in loose waves it lets you fix your hair in half a dozen different ways. Moreover, as your permanent grows out, since the top of your head should not be very wavy anyhow, you still can manage a smart coiffure which the old tightly waved permanent would not allow.

Most women part their hair this summer. But where you part it, and how, depends on your type of beauty or the shape of your head, or how your hair grows or just whatever whim you have about parts.

The sloping part is much better than the straight one, unless it is exactly in the centre. This must be a very straight line. Try running it clear back to the nape of your neck and putting your pins or curls to both sides for it. That is a new stunt.

Many a part has a middle start, then

RAIN AIDED FRUIT CROPS

Strawberry Production This Year Will Be Slightly Lower Than Normal

Fruit Growers Will Ship Jointly to Prairie Centres; First Berries Next Month

Fruit growers' prospects of a good strawberry season this year were increased greatly by the recent rains, although local associations are not anticipating a normal year, according to a report from one of the leading Saanich growers this morning.

Prior to the rainfall the land had been dried up considerably by dry winds, but the moisture has soaked the ground thoroughly.

The first of the season's berries are expected to be on the market about the middle of June, and local prices are expected to be about the same as last year. The crop will be slightly lower than normal owing to winter killing, which has damaged many plants.

BETTER BERRIES EXPECTED
If dry weather continues, the growers expect a better brand of berries will come from the local producers. Last year's were unsatisfactory owing to heavy rains, and were used largely for jamming purposes.

The four Saanich fruit exchanges will ship jointly to the prairie this year. These are the Keating Co-operative Fruit Growers' Exchange, the Vancouver Island Co-operative Fruit Growers' Exchange, and the Gordon Head Fruit Growers' Association.

It is said the shipments will include more crates in proportion to the crop last year, because of the lack of jam contracts. Loganberries and raspberries have also been damaged by winter killing, the latter having suffered to the greatest extent.

PIONEER MINE ASSETS GIVEN

Liquid Assets in Hand at End of March Over $660,000

New Tunnel Just Opened Gives Access to Fresh Veins

Vancouver May 17.—Pioneer Gold Mines of B.C. Limited closed its fiscal year ending March 31, with liquid assets in hand of slightly better than $660,000.

This remained after paying for all development work for the year out of earnings and a dividend for the first six months at the rate of 12 per cent, and for the second six months of 24 per cent on the 1,751,750 shares issued.

This sum of liquid assets was made up of $400,000 in hand, $183,000 worth of bullion in hand and in transit, and $74,800 Canadian National bonds and accrued interest. All this is set for in the company's annual statement just issued. The fifth annual meeting of the company will be held on Wednesday, May 31, in the board room of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, 702 Pender Street, Vancouver.

Gross bullion produced for the twelve months was $1,108,854, to which was added the U.S. exchange premium of $164,412, and miscellaneous receipts of $37,942, making a revenue total of $1,311,208. Mining expenses were $268,847, milling expenses $108,183, administration and general charges $33,188, ore transportation $23,174, to which was added refining expenses and mint charges, making a total of $447,483, thus leaving a gross profit of $863,725.

RESERVES
Reserves for depletion and reserve for depreciation was set aside at $297,926 while $112,340 was deducted for Dominion and provincial income tax, leaving a net profit for the year carried to surplus account of $433,297.

A total of 62,413 tons of ore were handled, which gave a return of $1,104,190 in gold and $2,694 in silver. The recovered value of gold per ton was $17.73, and there was an average tailings loss of eighty-two cents. The total value of the ore, exclusive of premium, was $18,55, and with the premium $20.40. Percentage of recovery was 95.6.

David Sloan, M.E., in reporting on the work at the mine points out during the year the No. 3 shaft was completed to the 1,828 foot level, a double drum with automatic hoist installed, the cyanide plant and fill to the capacity of 300 tons per day brought into operation, and important development made in the underground work. Next to the increasing of the capacity of the mill from 100 tons to 300 tons daily, the major event of the year was the continuation of the tunnels through the fault that had cut off the ore bodies at the east end, and beyond the fault, 567 feet on the seventh level and over 300 feet on the sixth level, with the ore produced therefrom grading higher than the average of the mine. This development was of importance on account of the extent of the company's property lying east thereby greatly increasing the life of the mine.

Charity Merger Plan Is Given Endorsement

Friendly Help Decides Terms For Amalgamation With Social Service League

Mayor Urges One Control For Charitable Work in Victoria

Terms for a merger of the Friendly Help Association with the Social Service League were endorsed at a special meeting of the Friendly Help in the City Council chamber yesterday afternoon.

These terms are: (1) That the new association be named the Friendly Help and Welfare Association; (2) That the executive consist of ten members of the Friendly Help, three city aldermen and eight of the Social Service League; (3) That a financial statement of the Social Service League be submitted and examined prior to amalgamation.

The merger is designed as a means of eliminating duplication in charity work in Victoria and to restore public donations to charity. The civic grant to the Friendly Help, which has run to a high figure in the last few years owing to unemployment, would be withdrawn except for cases directly affecting the city administration. Aid for which the city is directly responsible would be handled through the relief office.

The terms drawn up by the Friendly Help will be submitted to the Social Service League for endorsement. Some differences are anticipated, however, as that organization has already considered the idea of amalgamation along somewhat different lines.

MATTER OF DONATIONS
An outcome of nearly eighteen months of consideration and negotiation, the amalgamation would save overhead in distribution of charities. It is felt the combined organization would receive a great deal more public support than now gained by the individual groups, especially in view of the fact that subscriptions would be voluntary, with the civic grant withdrawn.

Mayor Leeming, who attended the meeting expressed himself in favor of the merger.

"It is a work of service that these organizations are doing, and if it can be improved by any method then that method should be adopted," he said. "Victoria is the only city of any size in Canada where welfare work is not handled through one central control."

NO COMPULSION
"I would like the two societies to merge if possible. Of course there can be no compulsion as far as the city is concerned, because the city is not directly connected with either," he added.

He also spoke of the overlapping between the relief department and the Friendly Help work.

Mrs. A. S. Christie, president of the Friendly Help, described the service of the organization over a period of thirty-eight years, its traditions and the work of many fine women connected with it. This should not be ruthlessly thrown aside, and a merger plan which entirely annihilated the Friendly Help could not be risked, she said.

Maestro to Study Byzantine Music

Philadelphia, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Leopold Stokowski, modernistic conductor of Philadelphia Orchestra, whose hobby is the study of strange, unusual music, is leaving for the Near East to delve into the little known music of the Byzantine empire.

On the shores of the Aegean Sea the fair-haired maestro will be hauled in a basket up the precipitous cliff on which the monastery of the Monks of Athos is perched. For centuries these monks have perpetuated Byzantine art and culture and Stokowski has obtained permission to study the rare books in their libraries.

He explained he does not plan to adopt any of it for presentation to modern audiences, his chief interest in it being to enrich his own background. Byzantium, centre of the old Eastern Empire, is now Istanbul, chief city of modern Turkey. Until a few years ago it was known as Constantinople.

PRAIRIES WANT NEW RELIEF

Winnipeg, May 17.—That the three prairie provinces may present a combined front to the Dominion government in making a uniform federal relief policy is the hope of Premier John Bracken of Manitoba.

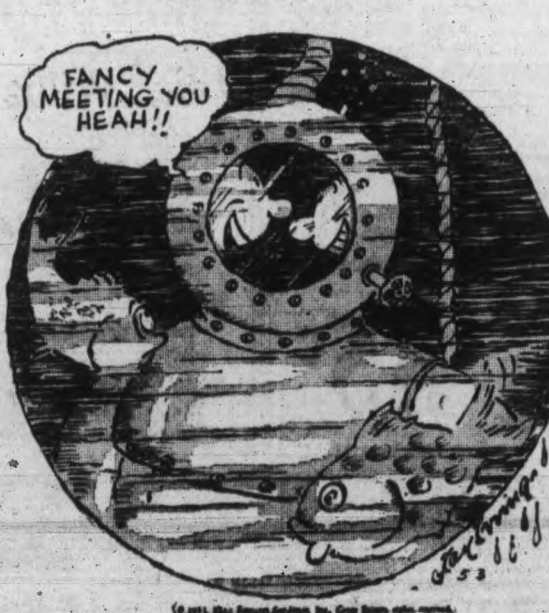

Mr. Bracken, following a conference between the provincial government and representatives of Manitoba municipalities, who declared unemployed are growing in numbers and that increased aid from Ottawa is essential said he would write the premiers of Alberta and Saskatchewan, suggesting the three provinces make joint representations to the Dominion government.

Spokesmen for the municipalities, presenting their case for increased relief for unemployed, declared the Dominion should further be urged to resume loaning of money to finance provincial and municipal shares of relief costs. Some asked for 100 per cent aid from the federal treasury.

BRINGS BACK THE JOYS OF OPEN-CAR MOTORING

FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION SYSTEM SCOOPS BREEZES INTO THE CAR . . .

How many times, on hot summer days, have you longed for the breezy coolness of an open car? Fortunately, you can have every one of these motoring joys in a closed automobile equipped with Fisher No Draft Ventilation. For not only does this revolutionary new development bring new safety and comfort to winter driving—it is also designed to scoop in great volumes of fresh air in hot weather—to fill a car with delightful cooling breezes that make every summer trip a real pleasure jaunt.

The fact that Fisher No Draft Ventilation is a perfected system, built into the car, is responsible for its many advantages. For, in addition to providing a greater cooling capacity, Fisher No Draft Ventilation permits each passenger to control the breezes in his area exactly to suit himself without interfering in the least with anyone else's comfort. In any kind of weather it maintains perfect conditioning of air inside the car—without a single annoying, harmful draft. It never allows smoke and used air to remain in the car interior, but carries them outside instantly. And it keeps the windshield and windows of the car clear of dangerous mist at all times.

There is only one way to appreciate fully the Fisher No Draft Ventilation system. That is to try it in actual driving. Once you have experienced the pleasure and safety it affords you will never again be satisfied with an ordinary car.

In addition to this excellent new system of ventilation, many such highly acclaimed Fisher features as: hardwood-and-steel construction, the strongest, safest known . . . sturdy "bow-and-slat" roof . . . extra-wide, extra-deep, form-fitting seats, handsomely finished in high quality fabrics . . . scientific insulation against heat, cold, and noise . . . adjustable driver's seat . . . new Protect-o-lock door handles . . . comfortable recessed arm rests—in fact, the most thorough provisions for motoring enjoyment found anywhere in coachcraft today! Examine—and compare—Fisher Bodies, item by item, at the showroom of any dealer in General Motors cars, the only cars with Bodies by Fisher.

A free ticket through CALIFORNIA on your WORLD'S FAIR TRIP!

Summer roundtrips TO CHICAGO via California
May 15 to Oct. 15

COACH	TOURIST	FIRST CLASS	FIRST CLASS
21-Day Limit	21-Day Limit	21-Day Limit	Oct. 31 Limit
$60.50	$70.50	$80.50	$90.50

Similar low fares, via California, to all eastern cities.

A free ticket through California? That's what it amounts to. For at the new low summer fares to Chicago, New York and most other eastern cities, Southern Pacific will take you through California for not 1¢ more rail fare than a trip straight East and back.

This privilege is yours on all fares except the new first class 21-day roundtrip, which is slightly higher than the fare via direct routes.

Add days in gay California to memories of your eastern trip. At the fares shown above you can, for example, swing down through San Francisco, Los Angeles, Arizona. Then up our Golden State Route through Kansas City to Chicago. Or, if your destination is New York, include New Orleans in your trip, with an ocean voyage from New Orleans to New York (meals and berth on steamer included in rail fare). Return on any northern line. Stopover anywhere.

30-HOUR-WEEK EVIDENCE GIVEN

Trends Confusing as Both Sides Testify in Washington For First Time Committee Is Pro-Labor

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, May 17.—The hodge-podge of opinion on the thirty-hour week bill has piled up in great contrast with the simplicity and ease which marked its consideration and passage by the Senate.

The enormous field of controversy has been opened by such related questions as federal regulation of hours, the minimum wage provision, import control, feature, constitutionality, effects on purchasing power, ability of industry to regulate itself, minimum wage fixing by localities rather than industries, sweeping competition, peculiar problems of particular industries, anti-trust law revision.

Even the labor movement and its friends have all mixed up and unable to agree.

COMMITTEE IS PRO-LABOR
The hearings of the House labor committee were colorful and instructive—even after Mrs. Roosevelt and Isabel MacDonald had paid their visit and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins had concluded her testimony.

The committee was distinctly pro-labor, kind to labor leaders and relatively severe with manufacturers—although sometimes its members were not quite bright enough to handle the industrialists successfully.

Small, bald-headed, spectacled Connelly, the ex-vaudeville actor, said little except for occasional wisecracks, and his persistent demand for the witness's opinion on his pet proviso for an embargo on imports produced by foreign labor not on thirty-hour schedules.

The best cross-examiner, however, was Wood, whose special delight was to shoot holes in the numerous unworkable proposals and to point out that industry had maintained trade associations for years without doing anything that would re-employ the 13,000,000 or more persons now out of work.

NEW AMBASSADOR TO ENGLAND

scholarly, gracious New Englander with a touch of the paternalistic, he was willing to grant the president power to control industry, but could not stand for the Black Bill with the Perkins amendments. That would create government boards, "thus injecting government regulation into every branch of private business"—which would be not only most undesirable, but probably unconstitutional.

Few witnesses were more impressive than white-haired Edward F. Cassidy, head of the "Big Six" Typographical Union in New York and a man of great dignity and poise. Supporting the original Black Bill, Cassidy told how a third of his 11,000 members were unemployed, another third employed one day a week and the remainder working on full time but giving up one day a week to the less fortunate members. Because union members had taxed themselves 10 per cent for relief work no member of Number Six had yet been on public charity.

The manufacturers seemed to feel themselves on the defensive for the first time, since they all agreed that something should be done to create employment and that regulations of trade associations should be subject to government approval. But although they were anxious to get out from under the anti-trust laws, they showed no enthusiasm for federal encouragement of labor's right to collective bargaining. The chief proponents of federal wage and hour regulation.

GREEN AND SPOPE
President William Green of the A. F. of L., favoring the thirty-hour week and opposing minimum wages on behalf of the skilled trades as against the desire of the unskilled, underpaid and sweated labor for minimum wages and a shorter day.

TWO VENERABLE MEN
President Henry J. Harriman of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce appeared at the hearings.

DANCE REVUE ON FRIDAY EVENING

Archie Kessen, Late M.C. at "Coffee Dan's" to Appear in "Happy Feet"

Many Victorians have very pleasant memories of "Coffee Dan's" in California for it is one of the show places of that city. Perhaps some will even remember Archie Kessen, master of ceremonies at this gay resort for a long time. This clever and popular entertainer is now in Victoria, and will be seen in action at the Royal Victoria Theatre in the revue, "Happy Feet," presentation of the Russian Ballet School, on Friday evening. Partnered with diminutive Miriam Schwabe, whose twinkling feet make the most difficult and eccentric steps seem so easy, he will demonstrate why he was so popular at "Coffee Dan's," since two artists make a splendid team and patrons are promised something that is just different in the way of entertainment.

BRITISH NAVAL PICTURE COMING

Of "The Flag Lieutenant" opening at the Empire Theatre The Daily Telegraph of London says:
"The Flag Lieutenant" is one of those pictures that are not only a triumph of the British flag, but also a triumph of the British flag."

Frederick March in the picture, "To-night is Ours," adaptation of play by Noel Coward, who also authorized "Private Lives" is now at the Columbia Theatre.

March, who was presented with the award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science for the best performance of last year, was chosen for the honor on the basis of his performance in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," by a vote of actors, writers and directors in Hollywood. He is co-starred with Claudette Colbert in "To-night is Ours," which Stuart Walker directed.

"King Kong" To Open Saturday

"King Kong" will come Saturday to the Dominion Theatre.
Fay Wray plays the girl whose champion, greatly to her dismay and terror, is a gigantic anthropoid, fifty feet tall and perhaps seven million years old.
"King Kong" captures Miss Wray in the jungle and, instead of destroying her as he does almost the entire group of explorers with her, he preserves her life and treats her with a clumsy sort of tenderness, despite the fact that he could crush her between his thumb and forefinger. Finally, in the climax of the picture, he attempts to devastate New York City in a misguided, blundering effort to assist her.

Adventure That Leaps Beyond the Frontiers of Imagination!

The ape as big as a battleship, who ruled before man is loose in our world today!

HITLER'S WORDS ARE SURPRISE

Moderation of German Chancellor's Views Amazes French Officials
 Washington Officials Find Encouragement in Policies Outlined

Canadian Press and Associated Press Paris, May 17.—The moderation of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's speech before the Reichstag to-day stunned French officialdom. A government spokesman said there appeared to be a complete about-face in the German policy.

"It is the first time since the war that the chief of the German government has spoken in such conciliatory terms," the spokesman said.

Official quarters expressed the opinion, however, that acts were more valuable than words, and that Germany does at the Disarmament Conference at Geneva.

WASHINGTON, OPINION
 Washington, May 17.—State Department officials here to-day described the speech of Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany on disarmament as encouragingly conciliatory.

Disarmament experts at the department noted particularly that Hitler had expressed his approval of President Roosevelt's appeal for abolition of offensive weapons, declared his willingness to accept international control of armaments and stated Germany was willing to count its national police force and storm troops in fighting its armed forces.

Hitler's announced approval of Prime Minister MacDonald's arms-reduction plan in principle was seen as a hopeful sign for progress at the Geneva Conference, scheduled to open to-morrow.

Special importance was attached to the statement that Germany was not thinking of a war of aggression, but rather of a war of defense, but rather of a war of defense, but rather of a war of defense.

TREATY REVISION
 A willingness to obtain modification of the restrictions of the Versailles Treaty by peaceful methods rather than armed force was the interpretation officials placed on Hitler's words.

Official Washington noted that on the other hand Hitler's address contained a warning that pressure against Germany would never succeed in its subjection.

Special attention was given to his statement that coercion applied to his country by other nations would lead Germany to quit the League of Nations.

Officials here, however, felt encouraged in the belief the conciliatory attitude expressed by Hitler toward disarmament plan and President Roosevelt's appeal would prevent the matter from reaching a critical stage.

ROYAL OAK
 The Royal Oak Women's Institute were housed at a tea for the mothers of the district Tuesday afternoon in Royal Oak hall. Mrs. T. Hutchinson was convener. A short musical programme was enjoyed, including piano selections by Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Wade and Mrs. J. A. Stewart and solos by Mrs. H. C. Oldfield.

Miss Alice Miller, Atlin, returned to her home on Sunday night from Mr. and Mrs. J. McNeill, Old West Road.

IS LAID TO REST
 Funeral services were held yesterday for Frederick Mead, who passed away at his home at 484 Sturdee Street, on May 12. Rev. F. C. Chapman officiated, and the remains were laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: John Fyfe, James Vall, Frank Holness, John White, Hugh Cameron and Richard Prosser.

RAID FASCISTS IN WINNIPEG
 Winnipeg, May 17.—A Canadian Fascist party with definite pro-Nazi and anti-Semitic leanings and the objective of making Canada a "Fascist state" was raided yesterday by city police, and numbers of pamphlets, letters and other literature were seized.

A quiet-looking house, near the downtown business section of Winnipeg, was raided yesterday by city police, and numbers of pamphlets, letters and other literature were seized.

Expulsion of Jews from political positions and western head-quarters on war debts were named as objectives of the party, according to the literature, the police said. A fight against Communism and Judaism was a better deal for the Canadian ex-service man and his dependents were advocated.

The raid was conducted under authority of section 98 of the Criminal Code. No arrests were made, but the pamphlets and literature seized were turned over to Hon. W. J. Major, attorney-general of Manitoba. He will determine if the literature is a violation of section 98.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Ladies' Aid of the Esquimalt United Church will hold a guest tea to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The speaker will be Miss Haddock, and the soloists will be Miss E. Dilworth and Mrs. A. E. Matcham.

After holding twenty-three hearings throughout irrigation districts from Panton Mountain to Creston, Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Lands, returned to his office to-day, having been absent several weeks.

Harold Winch, Vancouver, will speak on "Shylock Outdone" at C.C.F. headquarters to-night at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Winch has just completed a trip up island, where he has been speaking and organizing for the Socialist Party of Canada and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

An important meeting of the Parents' Group of the North Vancouver and Park Board Association will be held this evening at the headquarters, Glasgow Avenue. In addition to routine matters preparations for a garden party to be held at "Cloverdale," the residence of Premier Tolmie, on June 17, will be considered. All members and others interested are asked to attend.

A new Canadian five-cent stamp commemorating the meeting of the executive committee of the Universal Postal Union in Ottawa shortly, will be issued to-morrow. Postmaster G. H. Gardiner said this afternoon. At preliminary conferences in Ottawa the agenda for the general congress, which will meet in Cairo, Egypt, in February of next year, will be prepared.

Two postal notes, one for four dollars and the other for seventy-five cents, were received by Frank Sehl, provincial collector, this morning, accompanying an unsigned note, in which the writer said he should have remitted approximately $4.25 more in his income tax return and enclosure.

Mr. Sehl, however, is unable to credit the amount to anyone, owing to anonymity of the writer, and believes failure to sign his name was unintentional.

The Victoria Horticultural Society has arranged to hold its second annual iris show on Saturday, May 27. A downtown location has been secured, and by the courtesy of the Royal Trust the show will be staged in the building recently vacated by the T. N. Hibben Co. It is expected to have on show many specimens of the newer varieties which have been originated during the last few years. An attractive prize list has been issued by the society, and can be obtained at all flower stores or from the secretary, F. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue.

Complete details of the basis on which the provincial and federal governments will contribute towards relief administered in municipalities under the new agreement, will be outlined to executive members of the Union of Municipalities to-day. Cutting of the federal contribution to ten per cent in July, after a previous reduction in June, created an impossible situation, declared the mayor.

The proposal of the Federal Government might increase the allowance where municipalities were in financial difficulties would not relieve the situation, the mayor said. This meant municipalities had to be bankrupt before aid was given and penalized those municipalities which were endeavoring to remain solvent.

A discrepancy occurs in the announcement from Victoria that the federal contribution during June was 83 per cent at present. In a copy of the agreement received here from Thomas Reid, M.P., New Westminster, the federal contribution for June is placed at 30 per cent.

While the provincial government's share of relief is expected to match the federal contribution, no definite interpretation of the matter has been received by Mayor Gray.

Roosevelt's Message Defines Aggression
 Canadian Press and Associated Press Manchester, Eng., May 17.—The Manchester Guardian, commenting editorially to-day on President Roosevelt's April message, picked out as of great importance the proposal that nations agree not to send armed forces across their frontiers.

It expressed the opinion this "is an attempt to define in simple terms the nature of aggression."

"Why should President Roosevelt have included it?" continued the newspaper. "He does not mention the question of a consultative pact, but the United States can participate in one, and we infer he is now in the intention of providing a consultative body with the means of answering the first question which it would have to consider—Who is the aggressor?"

GRANT HALL COMING HERE

Senior C.P.R. Vice-president Expected in City To-morrow With D. C. Coleman

Grant Hall, senior vice-president, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, and D. C. Coleman, vice-president, in charge of western lines, Winnipeg, will arrive in Victoria by the morning boat to-morrow from Vancouver.

The C.P.R. officials, who are on their annual spring inspection tour, will make their headquarters at the Empress Hotel while here.

On his arrival in Vancouver, Mr. Hall stated that he saw unmistakable signs of a return to improved business conditions during his trip across the country. There is a possibility of decreased grain acreage in the prairie provinces as the result of backward weather, the vice-president said.

He is in better shape with respect to moisture than it has been for some years.

Mr. Hall attended the funeral in Vancouver of his old friend, F. W. Peters, former general superintendent of the C.P.R. He paid high tribute to Mr. Peters' services to the company and public. Mr. Coleman, in making reference to the passing of Mr. Peters, said preliminary conferences in Ottawa for the general congress, which will meet in Cairo, Egypt, in February of next year, will be prepared.

Accompany Messrs Hall and Coleman on their present trip are: D. M. M. Spencer, Winnipeg financier; Dr. W. N. Archibald, chief surgeon of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and J. W. Speers, assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal at Winnipeg.

The party plans to return east on Sunday.

BRITISH WOMEN BACK U.S. MOVE

Liberal Association Also Urges Strengthening of British Disarmament Plan

Scarborough, Yorkshire, Eng., May 17.—British Liberal women to-day both supported President Roosevelt's disarmament lead and urged strengthening of the British disarmament plan. In principle they approved the British plan. But they did not think it went far enough.

And on the heels of Lloyd George's admonitions yesterday to the Women's Liberal Federation to-day resolved "Britain ought to go farther."

The war-time premier had declared Britain had not been an active agent in trying to smooth the troubled waters of Europe and blamed the MacDonald government for being too hesitant.

"The British plan, according to Miss Jean Henderson, who moved the resolution, is a plan that is unpleasant for Britain."

The limitation of tanks to sixteen tons would sacrifice only one of Great Britain's 800 tanks on the altar of disarmament, she said.

The resolution adopted urged these additions to the British disarmament plan:

(1) Abolition of aerial bombardment. (The British plan excepted bombardment for police purposes.)

(2) Further reduction of weight of tanks and unladen weight of planes.

(3) Budgetary limitation of armaments.

Complete abolition of military and naval aviation with effective control of civil aviation.

Enid Wilson Gains British Golf Final

Glengarnies, Scotland, May 17.—Enid Wilson, holder of the British women's open golf championship, appears headed for her third crown in succession. With persistent accuracy and confidence she negotiated the final hole of the semi-final match on Friday afternoon to win a semi-final match from Doris Park, Guilane, by 5 to 4.

Miss Wilson's path seemed aided by the fact that the semi-final match which eliminated Miss Diana Fishwick, former champion and holder of the closed British women's title, Diana Campbell, Princeton, was a close one.

Wilson, with telling effect and used her putter with telling effect and escaped with victory on the eighteenth hole to win, 1 and 0.

Mrs. J. C. Vimpany Dies in Saanich

A well-known resident of Saanich passed away yesterday in the person of Florence Eleanor, wife of John C. Vimpany, who succumbed at the family residence, McRae Avenue. Mrs. Vimpany was born in England and came to Canada in this locality since 1907. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Florence Isabel, both in England, four sisters in England and one brother in England.

The remains are at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, from where the cortege will leave at 1:45 o'clock on Friday afternoon for St. Luke's, Cedar Hill, for service at 2:15 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Luke's Cemetery.

Business Gains In Canada Are Reported

Greatest Production Observed West of Great Lakes, Says Canadian Press

Toronto, May 17.—Employment and business have been gradually on the up-grade throughout Canada in the last month, if expansion reported to the Canadian Press by leading firms reflect conditions. The most general pick-up is noted in the west, where a moderate expansion of staffs has resulted mainly from activity in the food supply and wearing apparel industries.

General Motors of Canada announced production schedules had been increased by 1,600 car units for June and July over the previously contemplated midsummer schedule. The company's production schedule for the month of May shows a 1,512 increase over the same month of last year. More than half those employed are in the automotive industry.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

SERGEANT A. H. BISHOP JUSTIN WALFORD WILLIAM B. GRANT

A wide circle of friends will join in extending congratulations to-day to a popular officer of the city police force. Sergeant Arthur H. Bishop, Sergeant William B. Grant, who was born in London, England, has won his way to his present rank as the result of a good record of efficient service on the force.

Justin Walford, who celebrates a birthday to-day, is agent for the Canadian Pacific Express in Victoria, and has over twenty years' service with the C.P.R. to his credit. Four years ago he came to Victoria after working in the interior and on the prairies.

Members of the Burns Club and other friends extended birthday congratulations to-day to William G. Grant, vice-president of the club. Mr. Grant, who was born in Banffshire, Scotland, became manager of the Burns Club in 1928. He was first founded in 1908. He is in demand as a cricket umpire.

Final Tribute To Miss Archbutt

Many former pupils of the Poplars School attended the funeral yesterday afternoon of Miss Fanny Archbutt, late principal. Services were held at Christ Church Cathedral at 3:15 o'clock. Rev. T. A. M. Acheson-Lyle, in the presence of a large congregation, read the 23rd Psalm was sung, together with the hymns, "When On My Day" and "Till We Meet Again." A number of beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and hearse. Interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park, the pallbearers being: Major E. M. Grig, J. T. T. W. H. Lettice, E. G. Marriott, W. S. Miles and V. Banister.

PLAN BANQUET FOR PIONEERS

Saanich Pioneer Society Completes Arrangements For Big Event May 26

The Saanich Pioneer Society met at the home of Major MacDonald, North Saanich, Monday evening to complete arrangements for the annual pioneer banquet and entertainment to be held in the Agricultural Hall, Saanich, Friday evening, May 26.

Miss F. Talmie will attend and give the Pioneer Roll call in Saanich. Mrs. Charles Wilson of Victoria and Bob Sloan of Sidney will be among the artists on the program.

Supper arrangements for the banquet are in the hands of the ladies of the society.

NEW OTTAWA TITLE DEBATE

Ottawa, May 17.—General parliamentary debate on the interpretation of the government's statement in the Commons to-day on titles is that Canadians are not precluded from claiming the King's Birthday or similar occasions.

The answer was in reply to a question by Mr. A. G. Meier, Liberal, asking: "Do the recent decorations granted in the order of St. Michael and St. George and the order of St. Charles on the Great mean that Canadians holding titles in any order may now accept promotions in the same order, as such promotions do not carry any rank or title?"

Comments from far corners of the world on President Roosevelt's non-aggression message as reported in Associated Press-Canadian Press dispatches were received.

London—Hailed as broad contribution to cause of peace and economic recovery. Welcomed by Premier MacDonald in speech. Otherwise official comment withheld. "Point the way to the best escape from present world difficulties."

Moscow—Aroused speculation as to possibility of United States recognition of Soviet Russia.

Rome—Meeting of Grand Council advised a week to discuss the suggestions; reactions favorable.

Tokyo—Indicates non-aggression suggestions inacceptable if applied literally to Orient.

Stockholm—Viewed as important forward step, a historic event.

Mexico City—President Abelardo Rodriguez "Mexico is resolved to be a better neighbor and close the differences with other nations."

Madrid—Melquiades Alvarez, Liberal Democratic Party, "Point the way to the best escape from present world difficulties."

Copenhagen—Premier Stauning: "Particularly cheering to those nations, like Denmark, believing in the ultimate victory of peace."

Vienna—Socialist quarters greatly impressed; others await further details and Hitler reactions.

Bucharest—Hailed by press as momentous to Orient.

Oso—Quickly approved at a cabinet session.

Buenos Aires—Favorably received; described as outstanding and an effort to thwart European war.

An organization meeting of the Commonwealth Co-operative Federation will be held at Lake Hill Community Hall to-night at 8 o'clock. Speakers will be Harold Winch, Vancouver, T. Guy Sheppard and S. Davis.

WILL FEATURE MARIONETTES

Fascinating Entertainment to Be Presented at Kinsmen Show on May 24

A feature of the numerous side-show attractions at the Kinsmen Carnival, which will take place on the evening of May 24 at the Crystal Garden, will be Randall's Marionettes. The Kinsmen have been fortunate in securing this Marionette show for one evening only, and their success in this instance should prove to be popular with all those attending.

Marionettes are always a fascinating form of entertainment, both for young and old. The little figures in Randall's show stand only twenty-two inches high, and offer new and novel acts. One scene, in particular, is more than a little out of the ordinary, for it shows the interior of radio station KIN, with all the artists being played by Marionettes.

On the same programme will be the world's smallest piano player (reputedly), who will preside over a miniature piano.

Dancing, swimming, midway attractions and water polo will round out the large and varied programme of entertainment for the Kinsmen Carnival. In addition, two free trips to Alaska and Honolulu (or the equivalent in cash), will be awarded to those securing the greatest number of correct number of pieces of Vancouver Island coast contained in a jar in Kingston-Gillespie's store, Fort Street.

Proceeds of the Carnival will be distributed to the Solarium and other Kinsmen charities.

FRENCH PEACE MOVE

Paris Told By Ambassador Roosevelt's Message Was Warning to Germany

Favorable Responses to Proposals in Number of Nations' Capitals

Associated Press Paris, May 17.—The government was more appreciative of President Roosevelt's message to-day after receiving the explanation of Ambassador Andre de Laboulaye, which indicated it was intended solely as a warning to Germany.

"The message is highly important," a government spokesman said. "It surely will moderate Chancellor Hitler."

A member of the cabinet said that "Chancellor Hitler made the most subtle, most adroit and most intelligent speech a German statesman has pronounced in recent times."

NORWAY APPROVES Oslo, Norway, May 17.—Norway gave quick approval to President Roosevelt's peace proposals. It was believed here to be the first nation to place itself in line with the American plan.

The cabinet was called into session immediately after the message was received by King Haakon. It unanimously accepted the President's suggestions and proposals.

ARGENTINA'S POSITION Buenos Aires, May 17.—President Roosevelt's message, which was described as the greatest spur toward cordiality and confidence in the United States since the nineteenth century.

Newsprint and official quarters are specially pleased with what the United States President had to say about non-aggression, and in favor of a program of accelerating commerce.

ALBANIA AND ROMANIA Vienna, May 17.—Comment was cautious, though friendly, as incomplete versions of President Roosevelt's message appeared in newspapers in the Balkan countries.

The Rumanian press was practically unanimous in hailing the proposal as momentous and likely to mean national security by leading to peace.

Czechoslovakian unofficial reaction also was most friendly.

Comments from far corners of the world on President Roosevelt's non-aggression message as reported in Associated Press-Canadian Press dispatches were received.

London—Hailed as broad contribution to cause of peace and economic recovery. Welcomed by Premier MacDonald in speech. Otherwise official comment withheld. "Point the way to the best escape from present world difficulties."

American League Race Tightens Up With Yanks Ahead

Move Into First Place, Although Idle, When Washington Beats Cleveland

Senators Victors In Twelve Innings

St. Louis Whips Boston Sox in Eleven Innings; Pirates and Giants Winners

Washington Senators and Cleveland Indians put on a slugfest of near-record proportions yesterday, surpassing anything that has been seen this season, as they struggled through twelve innings to give Washington an 11 to 10 victory and put the teams into a second-place tie a few points behind New York Yankees, whose idleness gave them back the American League lead.

In the long session the teams made a total of forty-three hits, good for fifty-one bases, and nine pitchers marched out to the mound. The Senators piled up twenty-seven of the blows. Cecil Travis celebrated his debut into the majors by making five singles and scoring three runs.

St. Louis Browns pounded Boston Red Sox for thirteen hits in an eleven-inning set-to for a 3 to 2 victory in the other American League game. Detroit-New York and Chicago-Philadelphia were rained out.

Pittsburgh's league-leading Pirates rapped the Phillies for ten hits and a 6 to 4 triumph in the National League. New York Giants, only a half-game behind, beat Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1, while Boston Braves set down Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 3. Brooklyn Dodgers took a 6 to 5 victory from St. Louis Cardinals, keeping the Redbirds in fourth place.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Washington, May 17.—In a weird twelve-inning slugfest, with the two teams using thirty-three players between them to produce the astounding total of forty-three hits, Washington Senators yesterday recorded an 11 to 10 victory over Cleveland Indians in a second-place tie with the Indians for the American League lead.

After 3 hours and 24 minutes of baseball, Joe Kuhel, Senator first baseman, stepped up to the plate with the bases loaded to push a clean single through the pitcher's box and bring across the winning run. Kuhel was the batting hero of the day. His five hits included a home run over the right-field fence in addition to a triple.

Washington ..... 11 27 3
Batteries—Ben. Connally, Craghead, Brown, Horder and Spencer; Stewart, Burke, Weaver, Russell, McAfee, Crowder and Sewell.

Boston, May 17.—Mervin Shea, Boston Red Sox catcher recently traded to St. Louis, yesterday started the Browns' eleventh-inning rally that defeated his former teammates, 3 to 2.

The Browns made their winning tally off Bob Kline, who relieved Lloyd Brown, former St. Louis southpaw, when the Browns tied the score at two-all in the eighth. With the bases filled, Brown forced over the tying run by passing Bruce Campbell.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh, May 17.—Pittsburgh pounded three Philadelphia pitchers for an 8 to 4 victory yesterday in taking their second straight victory and tightening their hold on first place. Gus Suhr lifted a home run into the stands off Liska's delivery in the seventh.

R. H. E. Philadelphia ..... 4 8 0
Pittsburgh ..... 8 10 3
Batteries—Moore, Hansen, Liska and Davis; Swift and Padden.

Chicago, May 17.—Carl Hubbell, southpaw pitching ace of the Giants, turned in his fifth victory of the season yesterday, as New York opened an invasion of the West with a 4 to 1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Hubbell yielded eight hits, two more than his mates were able to muster off a trio of Cub pitchers, but he was invincible with men on bases.

R. H. E. New York ..... 4 6 4
Chicago ..... 1 8 1
Batteries—Hubbell and Mancuso; Malone, Tinning, Bush and Hartnett.

St. Louis, May 17.—The Brooklyn Dodgers took advantage of the wildness of Bill Hallahan and Dizzy Dean to score two runs in the ninth inning and defeat the Cardinals, 6 to 5, in the series opener yesterday.

Hallahan was yanked after walking Jake Flowers, first man up in the ninth. Dean passed two more to cram the corners, then Johnny Frederick came through with a single, his fourth hit, and drove in the deciding runs.

R. H. E. Brooklyn ..... 6 12 2
St. Louis ..... 5 10 0
Batteries—Clark, Beck, Bengue and

Senators, May 17.—Joe Mowry, a Minneapolis rookie, the Reds angled for but did not get, celebrated his rise to the majors with a single and a triple yesterday, providing two runs to help Boston defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 3.

terday evening for the purpose of arranging the playdowns in the Dominion championship series, but during the course of their gathering a wire was received from Secretary Davidson of the D.F.A. intimating that the Coast F.A. had requested an extension of the entry date to Thursday mid-night, but that the provincial body was not compelled to grant any further extension.

It was decided, however, to accept affiliations and entry fees from the Pacific Coast F.A. clubs for the Dominion championship series, such applications to bear postmark at or prior to midnight to-night. Nanaimo City had already filed their application on Monday night. The draw for the first round will be made on Friday or Saturday.

"Battle Of Churchill Downs" Through Camera's Eye

Here is the camera version of that Kentucky Derby fight that brought suspension for jockeys Donald Meade, who rode Broker's Tip (No. 16), the winner, and Herb W. Fisher, who rode Head Play (No. 9), second colt by a nose. At the left, coming down the stretch, the jockeys are seen reaching toward each other at the moment when Fisher charges Meade pulled his saddle blanket. At the right, Fisher stands in his stirrups, turned toward Meade. Meade charged Fisher struck him twice with his whip.

TILICUMS TO MEET SLINGERS

Cellar Teams Will Meet in Senior Amateur Baseball Fixture To-night

Slingers and Tillicums, who are at present both in cellar position in the Senior Amateur Baseball League, will battle for second place when they meet to-night at 6.15 o'clock in the Athletic Park. Both teams have played one game each, and suffered defeat.

Victory for either nine will put it in the position for second place with the Sons of Canada, who have played two and lost one and won one. The league-leading Camerons have played two and won two.

Art Carr is expected to start the heavy work for Slingers with Alex. Thomas on the receiving end, while the Tillicums battery will be chosen from Lloyd Jones and Ted Colgate, and Aime Worthington.

Eddie Newman will officiate behind the plate, while Jimmy Givens will call the bases.
